PREFACE

The greater part of the contents of this, the twenty-fourth volume of the American Jewish Year Book, was prepared in the office of the Bureau of Jewish Social Research under the supervision of Dr. H. S. Linfield, Director of the Department of Information and Statistics of that bureau, which is affiliated with, and in part supported by, the American Jewish Committee, for which this volume, like those published during the past fourteen years, has been edited.

In addition to the usual Directories and Lists, two special features are presented within these pages. The first is a Survey of the Year 5682, prepared by Doctor Linfield. This is a substitute for the Record of Events published in former volumes, and is based largely on the monthly Summaries of Events of Jewish Interest compiled by the same writer and issued by the Bureau of Jewish Social Research for the American Jewish Committee since September, 1921. It is believed that readers will find this Survey a highly interesting, useful, and impartial presentation of the most significant events and tendencies in the life of the Jews throughout the world during the past twelve months. The appendices containing lists of anniversaries, important bequests and gifts, appointments, honors, and elections, and a necrology supplement this article.

The other special feature in this volume is a list of Jews in the United States who are prominent in the various professions, in the arts, in science, or in other walks in the public life of our country. It was felt that, several years having elapsed since a similar inventory had been taken, it was time to compile a new record of Jews who contribute to the sum of American life. The present list has been compiled by Mr. I. George Dobsevage, who has brought to the task an impartial and objective mind, and has availed himself of all the best source books. To some extent the list is preliminary in character, it being believed that it may form the basis of a larger biographic dictionary or "Who's Who."

No change has been made in the other sections of the YEAR BOOK, except in the article on Jewish statistics. For the past two years, the first part of this article, dealing with the Statistics of Jews in the various countries of the world, has been based on a readjustment of pre-war figures. During the past year, however, a number of countries, some of which were created after the war, have made new censuses; in the case of other countries, various statistical authorities have made new estimates of population. Doctor Linfield has brought together both the results of censuses and the revised estimates, and has compiled new tables which are believed to be more accurate than those previously published, some of which were based upon population statistics of a quarter of a century ago. A careful examination of these tables will repay the thoughtful reader who may find many interesting and instructive items in them.

Attention is called to the Fifteenth Annual Report of the American Jewish Committee, and to the Thirty-fourth Annual Report of the Jewish Publication Society published in the present volume.

I desire to express my heart-felt thanks to Doctor Linfield for his valuable and untiring co-operation; to Mr. Dobsevage for the industry and zeal which he brought to bear upon the preparation of his contribution; to Doctor Halper for his usual courtesies, and to Doctor Adler, who has continued to manifest a deep interest in this series of volumes which he originated twenty-four years ago. I am grateful also to Miss Rose A. Herzog and to Mrs. Elfrida Solis-Cohen for the assistance they have given me. Thanks are also due to Mr. A. S. Freidus and Miss A. Nesanow.

HARRY SCHNEIDERMAN.

A SURVEY OF THE YEAR 5682*

By H. S. Linfield, Ph.D.

I

Jewish Spiritual and Intellectual Life

Sabbath Observance.—The struggle of Jews to observe the Sabbath, in the face of adverse conditions, is universal, and assumes various forms. In many countries, during the year, Jews have fought for permission to have their children excused from attending schools, or at least abstain from writing lessons on the Sabbath. In Holland, the Municipal Council of Amsterdam decided that schools in which the majority of the students are Jewish may be closed on Saturday, the omission of the day to be made up by the addition of half an hour on each week-day. In Jugo-Slavia, Jewish pupils were permitted to absent themselves from attending school on Saturday. In Switzerland, the Zurich Diet decided to leave the question of the exemption of the Jewish pupils from writing lessons on Saturday to the discretion of school authorities. In Poland, the Jews have sought to be excused from writing on Saturday, and assurances have been given by the Polish authorities that Jewish students will be permitted to absent themselves from lessons requiring writing on the Sabbath. In the United States, the Council of Jewish Women requested the Board of Education of New York to discontinue holding graduation exercises on Friday evenings. In Poland, the Minister of Education consented to holding written examinations of Jewish gymnasium students on week-days instead of Saturdays, but oral examinations will be continued on Saturdays. In Hungary, on the other hand, the Minister of Education deprived Jewish pupils of the right to apply for exemption from writing on the Sabbath.

SUNDAY LEGISLATION.—Sabbath observance by Jews is closely related to compulsory Sunday observance. In countries and places where Sunday observance is compulsory it is usually difficult and often impossible for Jews to observe the Sabbath.

In Latvia, parliament rejected an amendment by which the Jews who observe the Sabbath would have been permitted to work on Sunday. In Poland, the Government promised to introduce a bill to permit Jews who observe Sabbath to trade on Sunday for a few hours. In all places, the liberal members of parliament are supporting the Jews in their demands to be permitted to trade on Sunday. In Poland, the Government permits Jews in certain occupations, such as bakers, who observe the Sabbath, to work on Sunday. In Lithuania, the Government has excused the Jewish civil employes on Saturday, requiring them to make up the loss in time by curtailment of summer vacations.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST SABBATH IN SOVIET RUSSIA.—A campaign was organized to force Jews to adopt Sunday as their Sabbath. The Jewish Section carried on its campaign energetically, utilizing lectures, the press, and so-called "work-on-Sabbath" campaigns, which consisted of public exhibitions of Jews engaged on the Sabbath in such work as sweeping the streets, carrying fuel into public buildings, etc. This campaign, like the one against religion, produced the opposite result. According to press reports, Sabbath observance has become now in Russia more widespread than before the campaign.

Facilitation of Holiday Observance.—In some places, especially the United States, local administrations do everything in their power to facilitate holiday observance by Jews. At the request of the Jewish Welfare Board, the War Department and the other branches of the Government granted furloughs to the Jewish men in the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps for Pesah, Shebu'oth, Rosh ha-Shanah, and Yom Kippur. In Poland, the Jewish Sejm Club was compelled, on a number of occasions, to protest to the Government against the neglect of military authorities in this regard.

In Soviet Russia, the Jewish Section of the Communist Party has been carrying on a campaign to abolish observance of Jewish holidays. In a great many places, the Jewish Section organized demonstrations on Rosh ha-Shanah and Yom Kippur to call attention to its opposition to the observance of these holidays. In Witebsk, the Young People's Communist Party placed on trial one of its members on the ground that he went to synagogue on Rosh ha-Shanah, and sentenced the culprit to forced attendance at the school for political education.

Prohibition and "Ritual Wine."—In the United States, the Volstead Prohibition Enforcement Act permits the use of wine for sacramental purposes. The American press gave much publicity to alleged frauds committed by so-called "rabbis" who issued certificates to applicants for wine ostensibly for Jewish ritual purposes. On December 23, 1921, Mr. Louis Marshall, President of the American Jewish Committee, in a letter to David H. Blair, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, assured him that the Jews of this country are unanimous in disapproving any attempt that may be made to evade the law, and suggested that the Prohibition Commissioner must have acquired sufficient information to warrant a revision of the regulations of the Treasury Department in the matter of sacramental wine.

Early in 1922, at a meeting of the Rabbinical Assembly of the Jewish Theological Seminary, Professor Louis Ginzberg gave the opinion that unfermented wine might be used in the Jewish ritual. This opinion, which has subsequently been published, was approved by the Assembly. About the same time, the Executive Committee of the Central Conference of American Rabbis petitioned the Commissioner of Internal Revenue to revoke that regulation which permits rabbis to certify to applications made by Jews for wine for sacramental purposes. No far-reaching changes have thus far been made in the regulations.

In this connection it is interesting to note that on February 17 the Federal Prohibition Commissioner declared that the use of wine only is permitted, and that brandy is not essential for Jewish religious ceremonies, although its use is permissible under church laws. But early in April, Justice Hitch, of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, issued a mandamus to compel the release of certain kosher brandy on the ground that it may be regarded, under certain circumstances, as sacramental wine.

Jewish Chaplains.—During the year steps have been taken in the United States with a view to co-ordinating, standardizing, and supervising the work of the Jewish chaplains in the public institutions in the city of New York and its environs. The Chief of Chaplains of the United States Army requested the Jewish Welfare Board to review applications made by members of the rabbinate for admission to the Officers Reserve Corps, and made the endorsement by the Board a prerequisite for admission. In Lithuania, efforts were made to have army cantonments keep in their libraries Yiddish in addition to Lithuanian books, and the army commission on the cultural needs of the soldiers was requested to appropriate a certain sum of money for buying Jewish books, and the military authorities were asked to arrange that Jewish newspapers be distributed to the soldiers.

Shehita and Kashrut.—The Riga (Latvia) municipality, after a long debate, legalized Shehitah. In Czecho-Slovakia, the municipality of Pilsen rejected the proposal that it open a campaign against Shehitah. It is also of interest to record that Dr. Loire, director of the Pasteur Institute in Tunis, in an article in the Archives Medico-Chirurgicales, lauded the Jewish method of slaughtering animals.

Campaign Against Jewish Religion.—It is too early to pass judgment on the campaign which the Jewish Section in Soviet Russia is carrying on against the Jewish religion. The situation may be summed up as follows: A recent congress of the Russian Communist party adopted a resolution to the effect that one of the aims of the Communists is to revolutionize the human belief in God. There must be a sort of democratization of religion. The Conference was not opposed to religion as such; it was opposed to the theology of religion, to what they called the capitalistic theology of religion. It was decided to carry on among the masses a campaign for a better understanding of religion, and that no tyrannical means should be employed, inasmuch as such means would create the opposite effect, namely, the spread of religiosity. The campaign against religion is thus universal in Russia. Among Jews, however, for several reasons, the campaign seems to be much sharper than among other peoples. The Jewish section employed propaganda and public demonstrations against religion.

Another phase of the campaign is the requisitioning of synagogues; but it appears that this method was little used. In Witebsk, the Section confiscated five synagogues, out of seventy-seven, for the erection of a university and library. This was done only in view of the scarcity of other dwellings in that city.

Contrary to all expectations and probably due to various causes, religious feeling has been strengthened among the Jews, perhaps even more than among the Christian population. In Odessa, the synagogues are filled daily with worshippers. The Sabbath is observed even more widely than before the war. The Jewish religious associations, which in Russia correspond to the Jewish communities in other countries, see that their rabbis are well cared for.

EDUCATION.—The convention of rabbis in Poland resolved that Hebrew shall not be a language of instruction in the hedarim, although Hebrew must be included in the curriculum. The conservative party of Russo-Carpathia, in a memorandum to President Masaryk, asked that in drawing up rules for Jewish autonomy cognizance should be taken of the fact that the Jews are opposed to the use of Hebrew as a language of instruction. Hebrew, however, should be taught in the schools as a subject connected with religious education. The language of instruction shall be Czech or Magyar, in accordance with the language of the majority.

Compulsory school attendance has forced the heder in Poland to introduce secular studies, in order to receive Government recognition as a primary school institution. In Russia one of the results of the campaign against the heder has been its modernization. Thus, in many places in Soviet Russia, the heder at present has about fifty or sixty children, and is divided into classes as in other schools. In many places the heder is successfully competing with the so-called Jewish Soviet School. It is worth noting that the Orthodox Party of Poland has decided in favor of the education of girls, and the schools that have been established for girls are called Beth Jacob schools.

Several Yeshiboth have been re-opened during the year, the most notable being the famous Volozhin Yeshibah in Poland. Thirteen Hebrew high schools have been opened in Lithuania.

Campaign Against the Heder in Soviet Russia.—For many years Jewish radicals have been opposed to the heder. In Soviet Russia, the Jewish section of the Communist party, which is the Bolshevik minority among Jews, has assumed the right to abolish the heder. In this they were assisted by the Soviet Government's compulsory elementary education decree. This bill provides that all public schools maintain a certain standard. In Witebsk, the Bolsheviks arranged for a public "trial" of the heder. In the presence of a jury and a judge and of the public, certain people, ostensibly favorably inclined toward the heder, defended that institution against charges brought by another set of people who demanded that the heder be abolished. This trial lasted two weeks, and naturally ended in favor of the accusers, who demanded the abolition of the heder. This trial was used as a means of propaganda all over Soviet Russia. Public lectures and the press are also employed for the same purpose, and the Jewish Section has also tried "persuasion."

It is to be noted that during the year the Jewish section has repeatedly accused certain Soviet Government organs of at least being lenient with the heder. Early in 1922 the Government permitted the re-opening of private schools in White Russia, and later in the year the authorities permitted the re-opening of hedarim in certain cities. On the whole, the Communists have come to realize that the campaign has not brought the results desired, and the Yugend Bewegung, the organ of the Communist youth, says: "The suppression of the Yeshiboth did not bring desired results; one day we closed a yeshibah in Moghilev, the following day it sprang up in another place, or even in Moghilev itself. The political 'trials,' in themselves very useful things, caused an uproar for a week or two and then died out."

The Yiddish School.—The World War proved a great stimulus to the creation of the Yiddish school. On the one hand, children of the orphanages had to be taken care of by relief organizations, and the workingmen demanded that Yiddish and modern methods be introduced in such institutions. On June 15, 1921, 375 delegates of Yiddish schools met in Warsaw and formed the Central Jewish School Organization of the Polish Republic.

The workers' organization, "Unsere Kinder," which received its charter in February, 1921, and which admits into its schools only children of members of labor unions, forms a section of the Central Jewish School Organization. It aims to make the school free of any nationalistic opinions or religious spirit. During the year this society opened schools in Dvinsk, Latvia.

Higher Jewish Education.—The question of higher education has been acute for some time. During the past year several higher educational institutions have been opened, or at least steps have been taken in this direction. Thus, for instance, there has been opened in Berlin an Institute for Jewish Economic Research. In Poland there has been opened a Jewish People's University "Tarbuth," and steps have been taken to establish a Jewish Seminary in memory of Dr. Poznanski. Dr. Hayyim Heller, with the aid of American funds, is organizing a higher institution for learning in Berlin, which promises to be of far-reaching importance to the Jews of eastern Europe.

In Lithuania, the Jewish National Council organized higher courses in botany, physiology, history of Jewish literature, mathematics, physics, history of art, anatomy, etc., which were last year given in Yiddish to one hundred and ninety-eight students, in the summer months, at Kovno.

During the past year an Ahad ha-'Am Lectureship in Modern Hebrew was established at the School of Oriental Studies of the University of London. Courses in Hebrew were also organized at the University of Melbourne, Australia.

Technical Education.—The year was marked by spirited activity all over the world in spreading technical education among Jews, especially in Soviet Russia, and technical schools have been opened in Poland, White Russia, West Russia, and in the Ukraine. The Jewish technical schools teach tailoring, leather-making, textile work, printing, etc. During the year efforts have been made to establish courses also in metallurgy and clock-making, and a few schools were organized for the teaching of agriculture. It is worth noting that in White Russia there are seventeen professional schools, accommodating one thousand pupils, ninety per cent of whom are Jews.

II

The Life of the Jew as a Citizen

The Vilna Sejm and the Jews.—After the conclusion of the peace treaty between Russia and Poland, General Zeligowski seized the Vilna region. The act perpetrated was contrary to universal opinion, the League of Nations, the wishes of Lithuania, and probably also against the wishes of the majority of the population of that region. Later in the year, after various unsuccessful demands by the League of Nations that the invader leave the country, General Zeligowski instituted a plebiscite. The Vilna Commission of the League protested on the ground that no real plebiscite was possible while Zeligowski and his soldiers ruled the region. Later the commission left. The Lithuanians, the White Russians, and the Jews refused to participate in the plebiscite. On December 11, in answer to a letter from Count Grabovski, the Jewish parties wrote that they were ready to participate in electing a law-making sejm, to be convened on a democratic basis and to perform the function of regulating the inner life of the region; that the Jews would have considered it their duty to participate in the plebiscite to decide whether the region in question desired Lithuanian or Polish citizenship, if the proper conditions had prevailed to have made possible an honest and untrammelled plebiscite; and that the Jews can decide the question of participating in the sejm only after the publication of a special decree which should determine the scope and purpose of the sejm. The Bund, however, participated in the elections of the sejm on economic grounds.

Jewish Labor Parties and the Third Internationale. —In Soviet Russia the sympathizers with the Third Internationale continued their work of splitting up the parties into Rights and Lefts, the latter affiliating themselves more or less closely with the Third Internationale. These movements naturally affected the Jewish parties. In January the Bund decided not to enter the Third Internationale. Out of forty-nine representatives, five bolted and formed a sort of Communist Bund; ninety per cent, however, remained with the old Bund. When the Communist party of Poland refused to recognize the Jewish section, the Communist Bund decided to liquidate its activities. Some of its members went back to the Jewish Bund, and others joined the Communist Party. In the Poale Zion party the "splitting" continued during the year. In the course of the "splitting up," the so-called United Party has almost entirely disappeared in Poland. Most of the leaders and the masses have joined the Bund. After the split, the Left Poale Zionists were in the majority; but by the end of the year the Right Poale Zionists gained ascendancy.

In the United States the Jewish Federation of the Socialist party, at its convention early in September, also split, the majority deciding to sever relations with the Third Internationale. Here, too, the radical minority, as in other places, did not decide to join the Third Internationale outright. On October 23 there was organized a Jewish Federation of Labor Alliances which was entirely communistic. Later this Federation and the Jewish Social Federation joined the Communist party in the United States on certain conditions. But a small fraction repudiated both the Jewish Federation of Labor Alliances and the Jewish Socialist Federation, and organized a Jewish Federation of the Communist party of America, section of Komintern (Communist International).

Economic Life.—In Poland in the last twelve months the economic position of the Jews has greatly improved along with the economic improvement of the country generally.

The economic life of the Jew in Soviet Russia has undergone great changes. The new fconomic policy, which permitted trading on a small scale, has greatly improved the condition of the Jews who belong to the third category, the impoverished traders. At present many people are going back to the cities to engage in small trade. Thus, with the introduction of the new system, the proletarianization of the small bourgeois has stopped entirely, while, on the other hand, there has been a recrudescence of the small capitalists in all parts of Soviet Russia. At present there are families engaged in the manufacture of matches, suspenders, belts, locks, tin-ware, rope, shoes, etc. Jews are also engaged in local trade. Although the Government is issuing permits for the opening up of factories, the Jews keep away from them, due to lack of faith in the new policy.

JEWISH WORKERS' CO-OPERATIVES.—1921 was a bad year for the workers' co-operatives in Poland. About twenty-five per cent of the co-operatives disappeared. The Jewish co-operatives in Poland are a part of the association of class co-operatives. This organization received a credit of 85,000,000 marks from the Government during the year, and the Jewish co-operatives received 3,000,000 marks from American relief bodies.

"BACK TO THE SOIL."—Throughout Central Europe there is a noticeable movement back to the soil. In Lithuania 943 Jewish families applied for land. In Soviet Russia the new policy has stopped that movement on the whole. But the development of tobacco on the east bank of the Dniester, started by Jews after the separation of Bessarabia from Soviet Ukraine, has continued to prosper. By the first of January, 1922, there were in the district of Rashkov twenty-seven Jewish co-operatives engaged in the raising of tobacco, with 577 active members (heads of families). This number includes only about half a dozen non-Jews.

On the whole, there has been a tendency among the Governments to place obstacles in the way of this movement. In Russia the peasants have repeatedly shown their hostility to Jewish farmers, so that the Jewish Commissariat was forced again and again to intervene in behalf of the latter.

AGRARIAN REFORMS AND THE JEWS.—In Lithuania the Agrarian Reform Bill will probably deprive Jews of a great deal of the land which they own. Similarly in Poland the Agrarian Reform Bills work to the disadvantage of Jews.

In Czecho-Slovakia, as in Lithuania, the Agrarian Reform, which limits the number of acres which one family may own, works to the disadvantage of the Jewish farmers, and affords opportunities for depriving the Jews of a great deal of the land owned by them for distribution among the Ruthenians.

Unemployment Among Jews.—In Sub-Carpathia sixty per cent of the Jewish population are unemployed, and live on the income of the other forty per cent.

Strikes.—The textile strike in Lodz involving a large number of workers, mostly Jewish, lasted from July 11 to August 1, 1921.

In the United States the most noteworthy strike in an industry in which Jews are largely employed was that of the cloak-makers or The Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. This strike began on November 14, 1921, and ended on January 7, 1922 An interesting feature of this strike was that the union succeeded in securing from the courts an injunction against the Employers' Association on the ground that the latter had violated its agreement with the union. This ruling of the court established the important principle that contracts between two organizations of this character are just as binding as agreements between individuals, and that either party can bring suit for breach of contract against the other. This was the first time that a union had applied for and secured an injunction against an employers' association.

Jewish Labor Unions in Poland.—In the latter part of 1920 the Jewish unions suffered from a wave of depression, and the early part of 1921 was, therefore, largely devoted to the rebuilding of the Jewish unions. In April, 1921, a conference of all the Jewish labor unions, representing more than 75,000 organized workers, decided in favor of a complete reorganization of the Jewish labor unions, especially along the lines of centralization. In consonance with this resolution, the numerous separate unions merged, in order to form a large centralized union. Central unions were formed of wood-workers and of textile workers. The unions of houseworkers, of paper workers, and of workers engaged in food industry are in the process of organization. The needle industry, with 11,000 members, held its convention in July. The 106 delegates were divided as follows: 72 Bund; 31 Poale Zion; 2 Communists. By the end of the year the needle industry counted 16,000 members. The central leather industry, with a membership of not quite 11,000, held its convention in October, with eighty-nine delegates: 65 Bund; 12 "Red;" 8 Poale Zion; 1 United; 3 non-partisan. In the textile unions the workers were forced to carry on a campaign against the Yellow Polish organizations This was especially the case in Lodz and Bialystok, where the Polish unions tried to limit the admission and the privileges of the Jewish workers. Polish public opinion was solidly against the policy of the Yellow organizations, and all the strikes that were caused by them to force employers to discharge their Jewish employes failed.

The Jewish labor unions and the Polish labor unions entered into an agreement by which the two have been united along distinct lines. The text of the agreement states that both parties endorse the principle that labor unions should be built along the lines of industrial centralization, and that they embrace all the workers in a certain industry without discrimination of nationality or creed. In practice, the Jewish unions become locals in the national industries. The Yiddish language is used in the locals, but the auditing of the main books and also correspondence with the central office is to be carried on in the Polish language. The Jewish unions should have a proportional representation in all existing centers and district unions. The central administration must have a Jewish commission to carry on its activity in Yiddish along the lines of agitation, culture, and education.

EMIGRATION.—During the past year the Russian Government issued permits only to such persons as desired to join the heads of their families in the United States.

Due to the present conditions prevailing in Soviet Russia, there is a steady emigration from that country, not only from the Ukraine, West, and White Russia, but also from the Caucasus districts. Most of the emigrants from the latter territory go to Constantinople, which has become a great center of Jewish transmigration. An average of two hundred and fifty Jews arrived weekly at Constantinople, two-thirds of them on their way to Palestine.

RESTRICTION OF IMMIGRATION.—On February 7, 1922, the House of Representatives of the United States, by a vote of 280 against 36, decided to extend the three per cent quota restriction law until June 30, 1923. The law was passed by Congress after a number of hearings, which were published under the title of "Immigration Hearings Before the Committee on Immigration and Naturalization, Serial 1-B." The enemies of liberal immigration laws insisted on the retention of the three per cent law and on the adoption of even more stringent immigration laws on various grounds. Mr. Louis Marshall's efforts on behalf of liberal immigration legislation deserve special note. For over eight hours he gave testimony before the Committee on Immigration of the House of Representatives. The Jewish press was unanimous in its praise of Mr. Marshall's stand and of the cogent arguments advanced by him. His testimony covers more than sixty pages of the printed hearings.

Canada also enacted restrictions. The provisions of the bill that work special hardships on the Jewish immigrant are the following: Each immigrant must have $250, and must have a passport testifying to his "continuous journey." Thus, a Russian refugee in Poland cannot go to Canada, since he has no vise from the country of which he is a citizen, namely, Soviet Russia.

The United States consul in Warsaw was instructed to regard the eastern border districts of Poland, the territory east of the so-called Curzon line, as Russian territory, so far as the immigration quota is concerned. This gave an opportunity to an additional number of emigrants to enter the United States, or to receive vises on account of the 1921-22 yearly quota.

On the other hand, the American consul ruled that inhabitants of Vilna are Polish citizens as far as immigration into the United States was concerned. This ruling deprived Vilna Jews of the opportunity of entering the United States before the new immigration year commenced.

New Countries of Immigration.—On September 30, 1921 the Committee sent by the HIAS (Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society) to Cuba reported that the island is good for a limited number of immigrants. During the first year about 1000 Jews might come there, the number to be increased every year by a few hundred.

The ICA (Jewish Colonization Association) and other organizations have made an effort during the year to open up South America, especially the countries on the border of Argentina, to Jewish immigration. A committee sent to Chile and Peru reported that these countries are not ready to receive Jewish immigrants in large numbers.

Struggle for Co-ordination of Jewish Immigration.—On September 25-27, 1921, the first emigration conference was held at Prague. It was convened by the ICA (Paris), and the HIAS (America), and also the executive of the Jewish World Relief Conference. This conference, which discussed numerous problems, decided to constitute itself a World Emigration Organization Society and to establish a Central Bank in London with a capital of £50,000. As this conference practically came to naught, the ICA called a second Emigration Conference at Paris on January 16, 1922, inviting representatives of the Alliance Israelite Universelle, Jewish World Relief Conference, Idgezkom, HIAS, and the Central Jewish Emigration Committee of Warsaw. Nothing definite is reported to have come out of this conference.

In Holland twenty-four transmigrant aid societies met in Amsterdam for the purpose of co-ordination of transmigration

"Language Autonomy".—The Tenth Congress of the Russian Communist Party adopted a resolution on minority nationalities. The resolution, which was proposed by Stalin, the Commissar of Nationalities, and occupies a half dozen of printed pages, may be divided into four parts: (1) a summary of the policy of Czardom with regard to nationalities; (2) a criticism of the solution of the problem of oppression of nationalities on the basis of nationalism; (3) a résumé of what the Soviet Government has done and plans to do for the oppressed nationalities who inhabit their own countries; (4) mere mention of the fact of the status under Czardom of the oppressed nationalities who did not inhabit their own territories; (5) the problem of the spread of communism among the oppressed nationalities. The gist of this resolution is,on the one hand, a warning to Russian communists against the danger of relapsing into persecution of nationalities formerly held in subjection by Russia, and, on the other hand, a warning to these nationalities against the danger of considering their national or racial affiliations as of greater importance than their interests as members of the working class.

The Communist Government has therefore granted only what may be called "language autonomy." While in theory "language autonomy" does not recognize the minority nationality as a natiohality, yet it may be said that language autonomy has given as much freedom to the Jews in Soviet Russia as "minority rights" have given them in the countries to the west. As a matter of fact, it may be stated that Soviet authorities have shown sincerity in their efforts to free hitherto oppressed nationalities. Throughout the entire year, the Jewish Department of the Commissariat of Nationalities, the Jewish Bureau of the Commissariat of Education, the Jewish Bureau of the Commissariat of Social Welfare, and the Idgezkom (Yiddishe Gesellschaftliche Komite) have not been subjected to any interference by the Central Government. On the contrary, harmony and co-operation prevailed between the Government and these Jewish organizations. Late in the year, after protests made to the Moscow Government, the Jewish Commissariat was re-established in White Russia, where it had previously been abolished.

Government Subventions.—In many countries Governments have not granted subventions to schools of minorities in proportion to their needs, or in proportion to the number of schools. In Roumania very late in the year the Government began to grant such subventions. In Central Lithuania the Government gave a small subvention to the Jews of Vilná. In Russia the Government granted 500,000,000 rubles to the Central Bureau of the League of Culture. In Lithuania, 7½% of the Government's appropriation for religious work is devoted to Jewish religious needs. On the other hand, in Poland the Government and the Ministry for Education have not given any funds for Jewish education, and the local administrations of the towns have also persistently refused to vote any subsidies for the Jewish schools. In the City Councils the proletarian councilmen carry on a strong agitation, but it is interesting to note that even the members of the Socialist party in the City Councils have in almost every case failed to support the Jewish demand for school subsidies.

Greece has recently granted subventions to Jewish schools and communal institutions.

Violations of Minority Rights.—It is worth noting that in Poland the 1921 census was held on Rosh ha-Shanah. The Jews protested, and in such places where Jews constitute a large proportion of the population, they were granted the privilege of complying with the census law on another day.

At the request of the rabbis of Salonica, Mr. John Rhallis, Greek Minister of National Economy, decreed that fairs must be held on week-days and not on Saturdays. In answer to Christian merchants who objected, he wrote as follows: "The fairs must take place on a week-day, in order that Jews may participate. This is a just demand with regard to Jewish citizens.... Furthermore, when merchants abound there is a greater choice of goods. The interests of the consumers are, in this respect, identical with the interests of the Jews." Late reports have it that Saturday has again been chosen for the fair in Florina, and that Jewish traders are threatening to leave the city.

The matter of holding fairs on Saturday has caused a great deal of dispute during the year, especially in Poland and Central Lithuania. In the town of Kurenz, near Wileiko, the fair was again appointed to be held on Saturday,thus preventing eighteen hundred Jews from participating in it. In Ritshiwal the mayor so manipulated the discussions in the City Council that it was decided that the yearly fair be held on Yom Kippur. The Jews appealed to the Secretary of the Interior, who promised that steps would be taken to prevent the recurrence of this injustice. In another town in the government of Posen, the annual fair has for several years past been held on either the 5th or the 19th of October. In 1921 the local government decided to hold the fair on October 12, which was Yom Kippur, in order to exclude the Jews from participating.

Minority Rights and State Constitutions. — In countries of Central Europe minorities demand that the Constitution of the country contain clauses guaranteeing the rights granted to them in the peace treaties. Early in 1922 the Constitutional Commission in Lithuania declined to do this, but following vigorous protests it finally agreed to draft clauses to be part of the Constitution in which minority rights are guaranteed. In Latvia the Constitutional Committee refused to include clauses regarding the rights of minorities, whereas the Roumanian Government has promised to insert such clauses in the Constitution.

The constitution for the new Government of Egypt contains clauses which entitle minorities to establish and maintain religious institutions and schools in which their language may be used. The Italian Government granted autonomy to the populations in the colonies in accordance with the principle of the recognition of minorities in colonial and mandatory possessions. The Jews of Tripoli, however, allege discrimination in connection with the organization of the judiciary.

In connection with this subject, it should be mentioned that the Joint Foreign Committee, of London, protested to the League of Nations on the ground that Finland had included clauses in its Constitution which are contrary to the principle of minority rights, and which may, if permitted to remain, set a dangerous precedent.

The fall of the Avarescu Government in Roumania caused a great deal of anxiety for the security of the minority rights granted during that administration, but early in the year M. Bratianu, the Prime Minister of the present Government, controlled by the Liberal party, issued a declaration outlining the program of the new Government.

One of its clauses assures the recognition of educational and religious rights to every race, language, and creed.

MINORITY RIGHTS AND THE CENSUS.—In Poland the Club of Jewish Sejm Deputies interpellated the Government on the ground that in many places Polish enumerators either falsified the returns or coerced Jews into declaring their language as Polish. Many towns where Jews comprise a majority of the population appear in the census returns as entirely devoid of Jews. This is especially the case in Galicia. There the enumerators showed a tendency to register Jews as Poles, in order that the returns might show a preponderance of Poles over Ruthenians.

KEHILLOTH.—The question of the organization of the Kehilloth is especially acute in Poland. All Jewish parties have repeatedly demanded that the Government issue a permanent decree providing for the organization of Jewish Kehilloth which shall supersede the temporary decree issued by the Government on February 7, 1919. That decree provides, among other things, that the Jewish Kehillah is a religious organization, and that its functions are the organization and the maintenance of the rabbinate, the establishment and maintenance of synagogues, ritual baths, and cemeteries, the control and supervision over religious education, kosher meat, and the administration of Kehillah property and charitable affairs; that "small" Kehilloth shall be administered by the local rabbi and elected members, while "large" Kehilloth shall be administered by a board consisting of elected members to whose number the Polish Government may add three members by appointment. This decree satisfied nobody. In the districts along the eastern border the local authorities also refused permission to hold elections. The Constitutional Commission of Lithuania voted to include clauses providing for the organization of National Councils for minority peoples. Upon the creation of the Jewish National Council in Poland, the Government began to carry on an exchange of memorials on the solution of the Jewish question. The Jewish National Council broke off communications on the ground that it created an illusion that the Government was making a real effort to solve the Jewish question. Taking advantage of the friction among the Jews, the Government in turn has completely refused to recognize the Jewish National Council as the official Jewish representative body.

Minority Ministries.—Lithuania is the only country in which a Minority Ministry preceded the National Council. On January 4, 1919, the Jewish Ministry called a convention which elected a Jewish National Council. During the year, contrary to the demands of the Jewish National Council, the Lithuanian Constitutional Commission declined to insert provisions in the new Constitution guaranteeing ministries for national minorities. The Jewish Ministry, after consultation with the Jewish National Council, decided to resign as a protest. A few days later, on of April 17, 1922, the Executive Committee of the Jewish Council issued a manifesto to the Jewish communities to the effect that the minority rights and Jewish national autonomy in Lithuania were in danger. The appeal stated that the actions of the Constituent Assembly of late has been hostile to the very idea of granting national autonomy to the minority peoples. The action of Lithuania called forth protests on the part of Jews and the liberal public opinion not only in Lithuania but also all over Europe and in the United States. It was alleged that the course pursued by the Constitutional Commission constituted a flagrant breach of the pledge given to the Jews in 1920 during the Peace Conference.. On May 8, Dr. Carneckes, Lithuanian representative in Washington, declared that he had received a final report which emphasizes the fact that no final disposition of the matter would be made until after the third reading, when, he was certain, the action would be favorable to the Jews.

III

Jewish Communal Life

Party Struggles.—The Orthodox party, especially in Poland, has been very active. In small towns, it has often occurred that workingman's homes and libraries have been attacked by the people led by rabbis. Many Jews in the smaller communities consider it their duty to keep watch on the religious conduct of their neighbors. Similar conditions obtain in Palestine. The first convention of the Agudath Israel in Poland and the second congress of Jewish communities in Lithuania have greatly encouraged the orthodox masses of Jewry who in previous years were passive. On the other hand, it should be noted that the Constitutional Commission in Lithuania has rejected the demand of Jewish parties that the National Council have authority in religious matters; and in Jugo-Slavia, the Government is opposed to Jewish autonomy taking on a religious character.

Jewish Kehilloth and Local Organizations.—In

Poland, in the districts along the eastern border, the Jewish Socialist parties boycotted the Kehillah elections. The only Socialist party that participated in the elections was the Zeire Zion, and so it happened that only sixty or seventy per cent of the liberal elements in the Jewish communities participated in the elections, with the result that the conservative orthodox elements were easily victorious. The Kehilloth were then organized on a strictly religious basis, and gave little support to the institutions in which the liberal elements were interested. In addition, it is charged by a section of the press that the funds sent from America had a demoralizing effect on the Jewish communities in those districts, because the communities became accustomed to having their needs supplied from the outside, thus becoming pauperized. As a matter of fact, when American funds ceased there arose a crisis in all the communities in those districts.

But, on the whole, the Kehilloth have gone through a severe crisis during the past year. The Kehillah of Vienna was on the verge of dissolution on account of financial difficulties; the old Kehillah of Warsaw has had a hard struggle for existence during the past year, due to the fact that the workers and other liberal sections of the Jewish community threatened to or did withdraw their representatives from the Kehillah on the ground of its alleged reactionary nature.

The Jews in Roumania have been active in perfecting the organization of the Kehillah There was a referendum among leading Jewish communal workers and rabbis for the purpose of drawing up by-laws for the administration of the Jewish Kehilloth.

The Russian Government does not recognize the so-called national-personal autonomy. The central bureau of the Jewish section issued a circular containing the following: "Inasmuch as there exist in the Ukraine territories Jewish Kehilloth which show great activity and which pretend to represent the Jewish masses, the central bureau has decided to propose to the sections all over the country that they take means against religious associations (Hevroth) and against the Kehilloth, and adopt measures to weaken their influence." At the same time the Jewish sections, which in a way tried during the year to play the role of Kehilloth, complained that their activities suffered from lack of co-operation on the part of Jews who are not communists.

In the United States during the past twelve months the press reported the founding of ninety-two organizations, thirty-nine religious schools, ninety-nine educational institutions, three mutual benefit societies, seventy-three charitable organizations, one cemetery, and nine social clubs.

Some leaders of the New York and Brooklyn Jewish communities organized the Jewish Education Association. The purpose of the new organization is the advancement of Jewish education in New York City and elsewhere. Believing that at any time not more than one out of seven of the children of school age in Greater New York receive any Jewish training, the association has set for its aim the stimulation and organization of the community to extend Jewish educational facilities and schools to this vast army of a quarter of a million of Jewishly unschooled children.

CONVENTIONS.—During the year congresses of Jewish communities were held in almost every country of Central Europe, including Esthonia and Jugo-Slavia. There was one important exception—Poland. In that country the Zionists "captured" the Jewish National Council. The other parties, especially the Volksists and the Agudath Israel, did not recognize the authority of the Council. But the Council convened an advisory conference of communities, which, however, was not a complete success, owing, among other things, to the opposition of the Agudath Israel, which boycotted the conference.

In Czecho-Slovakia the German-speaking Kehilloth of the West met in convention in May, 1922.

In the United States special mention should be made of the convention of the United Synagogue of America, the Rabbinical Assembly of the Jewish Theological Seminary, and the Central Conference of American Rabbis.

On May 21, 1922, the Provisional Committee for an American Jewish Congress called a convention in Philadelphia. Unlike the first congress, neither the parties of the Right, like the Agudas ha-Rabbonim and the Mizrachi, nor the parties of the Left, like the Poale Zion, participated. The latter refused to participate in the Congress on the ground that the election of delegates was not representative, the delegates being appointed by organizations and not by masses of Jews. The Congress constituted itself as a permanent Jewish Congress, and resolved to join the Committee of Jewish Delegations in Paris.

The year was rich in conventions of rabbis. In some countries the rabbis met for the first time in national conventions, as, for instance, in Poland and in Lithuania. Mention may also be made here of some of the educational conventions. The first Jewish School Convention of organizations interested in the Yiddish school met at Warsaw. There was also a convention of Hebrew Gymnasia in Lithuania.

Conventions of the Jewish Merchants' Associations of Poland were held at Warsaw and at Lemberg, and the first National Conference of Jewish textile workers was organized in Poland. The National Conference of Jewish Workers' Co-operatives in Poland and other countries met during the year. In the United States, national conventions of the Arbeiter Ring, the men's clothing unions, and the ladies' garment workers deserve special mention, inasmuch as the struggle between the so-called radicals or "reds," on the one hand, and the conservatives, on the other hand, came to a head, and showed the "reds" to be an insignificant minority.

In August, 1921, the Joint Distribution Committee called a conference of all charitable organizations of the district of Bialystok, representing sixty towns. This conference created a central organization of all the medical relief societies in the district of Bialystok. The Joint Distribution Committee promised to cover fifty per cent of the expenditure of these societies. In the district of Bialystok, numbering one hundred and nine towns, fifty-one succeeded in creating such organizations for medical relief among Jews. The conference decided that every organization for the medical relief should have a section on propaganda. Two months later, on the first and second of November, the central committees of the relief societies in the district of Bialystok held a conference.

National Councils.—A new Jewish National Council came into being in Lithuania. It is composed of representatives of the various parties as follows: Orthodox groups, forty-six members; Mizrachists, six; Zionists, seventeen; Zeire Zionists, twenty-five; Left Labor, thirteen; Right Labor, six; Democrats, eight; Independents, seven.

For the first time the Jewish deputies of the Roumanian parliament constituted themselves into a Jewish Parliamentary Club, which is to vote as a unit on all matters affecting Jews In Latvia all the minority representatives had formed one political bloc. During the year the German and the Russian representatives broke away from the Jewish representatives, and the bloc was thus dissolved.

Decline of the So-Called Jewish Assimilationists.—In Esthonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Central Lithuania, West Russia, White Russia, Roumania, and Poland, the Assimilationists seem to have disappeared as a factor in Jewish life. On the other hand, in Western Czecho-Slovakia, Austria, and Hungary, the Assimilationists are still active In the community elections in the city of Berlin, taking into account proportional representation, the Jewish Nationalists—namely, the Zionists, Jewish-Nationalists, the Conservatives, the Orthodox party, the Jewish Socialist party, and the Zeire Zion—formed a bloc, under the name of United Jewish National Group, to oppose the Jewish Assimilationists who combined under the name of the Jewish Electors' Group.

IV

Anti-Semitism

Anti-Jewish Feeling.—On the whole there was little anti-Jewish feeling in the north-east and south-west of Central Europe, and a distinct lessening of the intensity of this feeling in the Polish Republic, so that the virulent "anti-Semitic attacks" in the Polish press could no longer be taken as representative of Polish feeling. In Austria, anti-Semitic discussion appears to have become unpopular, for we find that previous to the recent elections the reactionary parties were compelled to announce in the press that at the mass-meetings the Jewish question would not be touched upon in order to attract the public to such meetings. Even in Hungary, anti-Semitism is strong only in the cities and among the so-called intelligentsia. In the small towns and villages, anti-Semitic feeling is very weak or non-existent. In Russia, however, anti-Jewish feeling has been on the increase during the year.

Anti-Semitic Organizations.—On Rosh ha-Shanah, the "Rosvoi" (Progress), an anti-Semitic organization, placarded Warsaw with posters, calling upon the population to commit excesses against the Jews. It also organized the anti-Semitic congress. It has sections all over Poland, and it is especially anxious to organize the Polish students. The policy of this organization was expressed by Mr. Roman Dmovski, a sejm deputy and a director of the "Rosvoi." He stated that Poland could find a modus vivendi with the Germans, Lithuanians, and other peoples, but not with Jews; that the purpose of the "Rosvoi" is to pass a law declaring the Jews to be foreigners domiciled in Poland, and to force the Jews to leave the country or to be completely absorbed by the Poles. Of equal power and influence is an organization in Hungary, which goes under the name of Awakening Magyars.

In Germany there was organized the so-called National- partei, which has revived the traditions of the old anti-Semitic parties in Germany. While the party is weak and lacks influence, its program typifies the underlying principle of such groups: reactionary nationalism. The policy of the organization was expressed in an address at the conference of the Nationalpartei in the following terms: "The Jews are a foreign nationality which has spread itself within our country in accordance with historical developments on which we cannot go back. We must see to it, however, that no Jew is appointed as head of State. Jewish combination cannot be overthrown by local repression, but must be broken by united action on the part of the entire German people."

There are no anti-Semitic organizations in the Ukraine, White Russia, or West Russia, nor does there appear to be any in Czecho-Slovakia or Lithuania. In Roumania, too, the anti-Semitic organizations seem to have died out. On the other hand, anti-Semites were very active in Austria, and on one occasion during the year the press reported that they were planning pogroms.

Anti-Jewish Propaganda.—The agitation based on the charges of the existence of a Jewish conspiracy against the Christian world completely collapsed late in 1921. The credit for this is due to the London Times, which unearthed a copy of the original book upon the basis of which the so-called "Protocols of the Elders of Zion" was fabricated. In August, 1921, this paper incontrovertibly demonstrated that the "Protocols" consist in the main of "clumsy plagiarisms" from a French political pamphlet directed against Napoleon III, and published in Brussels in 1865 by a French lawyer named Maurice Joly, and entitled "Dialogues in Hell between Machiavelli and Montesquieu." Shortly after this exposé, the Dearborn Independent dropped the publication of further anti-Jewish articles, although it is still engaged in circulating pamphlets containing reprints of the articles which have appeared.

In this connection it is worth noting that the "Rosvoi" leaders have tried to form a sort of an international anti-Semitic movement centralized in Poland. Early in 1921, a priest, Lutoslawski, went to Paris with a view to organizing a world-wide anti-Semitic movement. Even before that, the Polish anti-Semites sought to establish communications with other agitators, with Ford in America, the Morning Post of England, and the Royalist Catholic anti-Semitic press of France.

One of the favorite articles of the stock in trade of the propaganda of the anti-Semites is that the Jews are an inferior people, and during the year a great deal of publicity was given to the discussion of the so-called race superiority or race inferiority. The Eugenics Conference was held in New York, and Dr. Chas. B. Davenport, director of the Eugenics Record Office, urged stricter immigration rules than those now in force and the enactment of such amendments as would make possible researches into the family history of candidates for admission into the United States, in order to bar tainted lines. Another speaker stated that in the United States "we are slowly awakening to the consciousness that education and environment do not fundamentally alter racial values. We are engaged in a serious struggle to maintain our historical institutions through barring the entrance of those who are unfit to share the duties and responsibilities of our well-founded Government."

During the public hearings before the Senate Committee on Immigration, Professor David Starr Jordan, former president of Leland Stanford University, in a letter to Senator William J. Harris, said: "It is a plain fact that our population has been diluted to an alarming extent by the incoming of peoples which are biologically incapable of rising either now or through their descendants above the mentality of a twelve-year-old child. Education and Americanization may help the individual a little but can never improve the stock."

Anti-Semitism in Intellectual Circles.—During the year the University of Cracow has been a hot-bed of anti-Semitic agitation. So were the universities of Riga, Lemberg, Budapest, and other cities. Students in various colleges and schools, led by Russian emigrés, have preached anti-Semitism, notably the Russian College in Paris, France. In the Netherlands several lectures of a pronounced anti-Semitic character were delivered at the University of Leyden. According to press reports, the lectures aimed at proving that the Jews are an inferior race, and that the Jewish religion permits the breaking of pledges and guarantees to Gentiles. A ray of light may be seen in the fact that in the universities of Cracow, Riga, etc., the authorities have announced their intention to take measures to avoid the spread of anti-Semitism. Another fact worthy of note is that the Students' Organization of Berlin disapproved of the demand of the chauvinistic faction that membership in the association be confined to students of German race and of the Christian religion. In Nuremberg, Christian professors of the Commercial Institute tendered their resignation as a protest against anti-Semitic attacks against their Jewish colleagues, and demanded the immediate dissolution of the anti-Semitic organizations; and in Poland the Minister of Education ordered the withdrawal of textbooks containing anti-Semitic propaganda.

Economic Anti-Semitism.—Poland is perhaps the only country where there exists a boycott against trade with Jews. During the year the press reported that the boycott had spread to Eastern Galicia, and the "Rosvoi" and its cohorts were agitating for the introduction of a boycott against Jews also in Posen. Furthermore, the Society of Polish Merchants, in a memorandum to the Government, requested that in trade with Russia Poles be given preference as against their Jewish compatriots, and the Warsaw stock exchange refused to admit a Jew to its directorate. The Central Jewish Merchants Association and practically every political party appealed to the Government to take measures against the boycott, without avail. Economic anti-Semitism was especially intense in the medical profession. In Poland it was a phase of the general boycott. In Warsaw the physicians organized a society to advise Christians not to call Jewish physicians and non-Jewish physicians not to call Jewish physicians into consultation, and to warn the people not to buy in drug-stores owned by Jews. This organization also announced its intention to ask medical journals to decline articles by Jewish physicians, and medical schools to exclude Jewish students, or, if this is not possible, to restrict their number.

The teaching profession also was not free from anti-Semitism. A conference of Polish teachers at Vilna decided that teachers of Polish nationality only may become members of their mutual aid organization.

GOVERNMENT ANTI-SEMITISM.—It is well to bear in mind that in some countries where anti-Jewish feeling is very strong, the Government or the administration is just to the Jews. Such is the case in the Ukraine. There are countries, however, where anti-Semitism is weak or non-existent, but where the Government is thoroughly anti-Jewish. Such is the case in Latvia. There the anti-Semitic movement springs entirely from the activity of the Government, local officials, and the press. There is no anti-Semitism among the population. The Government's attitude is manifest in virulent and inflammatory remarks by officials. Thus, the press reported that a Jewish delegation waited upon the Latvian Government. In response to some request, a secretary is reported to have exclaimed: "Go to Palestine, or go to Hell, but do not remain in Latvia." This condition arises from the fact that the Government is in the hands of the so-called Democratic parties, which are themselves divided into innumerable groups, all representing landowners, rich peasants, the clergy, merchants, etc.

In Hungary also anti-Semitism has its main source in Government activity. In Szegedin a representative of the Budapest Ministry delivered an anti-Semitic address,and on the following day the mayor sent a letter of apology to the rabbi, concluding with the sentence: "We live with the Jews here in peace, and we will continue to do so in the future." Late in the year, due to the fact that the so-called "Christian policy" continued to bring disaster to the Hungarian Government, Count Bethlen stated that the Government is prepared to institute a new policy, friendly to the Jews.

Anti-Jewish Discriminations.—In several countries of Central Europe, the Government, early in the year, dismissed Jewish teachers from the schools. This was done on an especially large scale in Hungary. The Minister of Education expelled two Jewish professors from the Hungarian universities; late in 1921, the Education Commission recommended to parliament the dismissal of Jewish teachers from those schools where the majority of the pupils were Christian; the municipal authorities of Budapest discharged all the Jewish teachers in their service; Jewish school principals have been demoted; professors of the commercial high schools have been transferred without reason to "board" schools, and in some instances, Jewish teachers have been forbidden to teach certain subjects. Altogether, some four hundred teachers have been affected. M. Vaszoni, former Minister of the Interior, himself a Jew, and the democratic members of the town council of Budapest protested against the expulsion of Jewish teachers from the schools. In Roumania, too, the city of Czernowitz and other towns in Bukowina expelled many Jewish teachers, but, on the complaint of the Jews, the Government promised an investigation and the reinstatement of the teachers.

Another phase of discrimination in the fields of education and culture is the restriction of admission of Jewish students. The so-called Hungarian Educational Act established the old Czarist discrimination. The act provides that not more than a certain percentage of Jews shall be admitted annually to the higher educational institutions. This matter has created a great deal of adverse comment not only in Hungary but all over the world, and passage of this act was one of the causes which forced Hungary to withdraw its application for admission to the League of Nations. The department of philosophy of the Lemberg University tried to exclude Jews from its courses, but, its decision was overruled by the Government. A little later it was reported that the Lemberg University had removed the restrictions on the admission of Jews. In Latvia the Government is trying to restrict the admission of Jews into schools: first, by excluding them until all Latvians who seek admission have been accommodated, and, second, by establishing such a high standard of the required knowledge of the Latvian language for admission, that no member of any linguistic minority can possibly pass these examinations. But these stringent requirements are applied only to Jews. This matter was brought to the attention of the League of Nations, but no action has as yet been taken. The City Council of Budapest created a special Commission on the construction of houses, with a view to counteracting the influences of Jewish architects who, it was said, construct their buildings in a "Jewish style," thus endangering the Christian appearance of the city.

Hungary issued trade regulations which restrict, by the operation of a percentage quota, the number of Jews permitted to engage in trade and industry. The Latvian Government has prepared a similar bill, but parliament failed to pass it. The Government has, however, in an indirect way, been restricting trade among Jews. This matter also was brought before the League of Nations. Everywhere else there seem to have been no restrictions with regard to trade. But in Poland, on December 2, the sejm repealed the Czarist discrimination against Polish citizens with regard to the acquisition of real estate. The act was to apply only to "persons of Polish race," so that it left the Czarist law in force as far as Jews were concerned. The deputies of the minorities protested, but without result. The Jewish Sejm Club has complained that the Government was interfering with the Jews, especially those who desire to engage in export and import trade, and also that the Government has discriminated against Jews in the matter of awarding contracts. As for local restrictions, it may be noted that the Fair Committee of Posen refused permission to Jewish merchants to display their goods at the fair. In other places, local government administrations helped the boycott by distributing circulars, calling upon the peasants to buy only from Christians, according to evidence secured by the Jewish Sejm Club and presented to the Minister of the Interior. With regard to complaints of discrimination against Jews, in the matter of awarding Government contracts, it is disquieting to note the resolutions, adopted by the Executive Committee of the People's democratic party, which read: The Party favors strict supervision in providing for the defence of the republic in the border regions; only "pure Polish" capital shall be invested; that the Government and municipalities award contracts only to "pure Polish enterprise;" that credit and privileges be extended to "pure Polish" industries, so that they may receive contracts from the Government and from the municipal institutions.

In Roumania the Zionist conference of Transylvania, in a memorial, asked that the Government discontinue discriminating against the Jews wishing to secure licenses for the sale of commodities, including liquor, and to stop the confiscation of Jewish shops in favor of non-Jews.

In Latvia the Government utilized various means to restrict the employment of Jews in civil service. In Poland the Minister of Finance organized courses to prepare students for civil service, but Jewish applicants were rejected. Later in 1921, the Sejm Club of Jewish Deputies interpellated the Minister for Railways concerning the discrimination on the part of railway officials against Jewish porters at the station of Minsk. In May, 1922, it was reported that Jewish civil service employes in Vilna were dismissed, and that the War Minister of Poland ordered all Jewish employes in the army offices to be discharged.

The case of the oath more Judaico deserves special note. In Roumania, the late premier, Take Jonescu, promised to abolish the special oath required of Jewish witnesses. In Central Lithuania, the following case deserves mention. The court called Dr. I. Wigodski as a witness, but inasmuch as the text of the oath includes a special clause derogatory to Jews, Dr. Wigodski refused to take the oath. The same thing happened later in the day with two other Jews. Finally, the court was forced to administer the ordinary oath required also of non-Jews.

In Hungary the press reported that during the present reactionary régime, the Jews were forbidden to reside in more than one hundred towns and cities. In Austria also the authorities of a small town issued a decree forbidding the Jews to remain there for more than twenty-four hours. In Nalentshow, government of Lublin, a committee was organized under the name of the Committee for the de-Judaization of Nalentshow, and in December, 1921, each of the forty-one Jewish families of the town received identical letters signed by the priest Lutshizki, as head of the above committee, ordering them to sell their property and leave the town. A committee of the Jewish community of that town, however, complained to the Government at Lublin, and the Jews were protected. The district commander of Posen revoked the order of the Bromberg Town Council prohibiting Jewish citizens of Posen to reside there.

Excesses and Pogroms.—On June 16, a pogrom broke out at Koitschitz, government of Minsk. This was the continuation of a terrible wave of pogroms that swept the governments of Homel, Witebsk, and Minsk. The cruelty and barbarism can be gauged from the fact that while only fifty people were wounded, eighty-seven Jews were killed, among them, an infant in the arms of its mother. During the pogrom, a few women were violated. Another pogrom that well illustrates the cruelty of the wave is the following: On June 25, 1921, at nine o'clock in the evening, an armed band of twelve persons attacked the railroad station at Staravee, district of Bobrouisk, disarmed one of the two policemen, and robbed and pillaged the Jewish houses. They killed twelve Jews, including a boy of nine and a man of sixty, violated and then killed a girl of nineteen, and wounded eleven Jews, among them two little girls. In the month of July, in the same district, there were pogroms in a dozen other towns, where thirteen were wounded and fifty-eight killed. In some towns, Jewish self-defence corps repelled the attacks by bandits.

As a result of the pogroms in sixty-two towns in the district of Bobrouisk, two hundred and fifty Jews were killed (ninety at the colony of Kovshitz, eighteen at Glubakowiz, twelve at Slowkowiz, twenty-five at Kiuban, eighteen at Ostonowiz); six hundred and fifty-six were wounded; nine hundred and six Jewish families were ruined (one hundred and twenty-eight families at Kovshiz, three hundred and fifty at Kiuban). The result of the atrocities in White Russia, as a whole, has been the complete destruction of the Jewish settlements in the small towns and villages; the Jewish population terrorized by robberies, butcheries, and rape, left their houses and fled to the cities, which became overcrowded with refugees.

In the Ukraine, banditry has been stamped out by the beginning of 1922. At that time the Ukrainian Central Committee to suppress banditry in the Ukraine reported that whereas in October, there has been 40,000 well armed bandits operating in the Ukraine, only 7000 were left at the beginning of 1920, and by the end of 1921, only sixteen groups with a total of about 1000 members were operating in the whole of Ukraine.

All through the summer of 1920, the Awakening Magyars and the soldiers led by Hejjas maintained a veritable reign of terror in Western Hungary. Many Jews fled across the frontier into Czecho-Slovakia. Budapest and Szigtvar and the district of Baranya suffered in particular. At least in one case Hejjas extorted 3,000,000 kronen from a Jewish community under threat of a pogrom.

In Poland, too, during the same summer, many outrages were committed on Jewish travellers in the trains. Thus, for example, on a train near Lukof all the Jewish passengers were attacked and nineteen injured. In July, 1921, a similar attack was made on a train between Pietrokov and Lodz; all Jewish passangers were beaten, and their baggage rifled. It must not be thought, however, that these outrages are perpetrated without arousing public indignation, for the fourth conference of railway workers in Poland adopted a resolution expressing "its most vigorous protest against the excesses which have taken place in the trains against certain travellers."

Later in the summer the soldiers who returned from Silesia committed excesses against Jews in the towns through which they passed.

Early in the autumn, Petlura attempted to invade the Ukraine. His soldiers succeeded in taking parts of Podolia and in inciting rebellion in other parts of Western Ukraine. The rebellion was easily crushed and the troops thrown back into Galicia and Roumania. The retreat of these disorganized bands was accompanied by outrages against the Jewish population, especially in the towns along the borders. A pogrom took place in Miropol in connection with this insurrection, and at Krizhopol fifteen Jewish children were orphaned. A train on the Kiev-Kovotel line was attacked, and eighty-five passengers, mostly Jews, were massacred.

Sporadic Attacks.—Early in the summer there were riots in Algeria, where the Jewish Gymnastic Club in the capital was attacked. In Germany there were riots in Munich and in Breslau during the Kapp-Putsch episode. Excesses were also committed by Greeks in Smyrna. In Budapest the White Terror fell heavily on the Jews all during the month of July. Fifty-two corpses, mostly Jews, were found floating in the Danube. In the course of a political meeting, a bomb exploded and eight Jews lost their lives and thirty were wounded. This was not the first case where the Awakening Magyars made use of bombs. In Latvia, bands and soldiers committed excesses in Dwinsk. In Roumania, excesses were committed in the government of Bessarabia and in Transylvania. Special mention should be made of the shooting by Roumanian troops of Jewish refugees who were fleeing from pogroms in the Ukraine and who were trying to cross the Dniester into Roumania. Twelve of these fugitives were killed. Subsequently General Popov offered apologies, and the situation improved.

In Crimea, excesses and pogroms were committed by the so-called Green Army. Many Jews were killed on the trains. The city of Alucki suffered in particular.

Blood Accusations.—During the year, there were blood accusations in the following places: Bagdad (Mesopotamia), Yashinovke and Pinsk (Poland); Monastir (Jugo-Slavia); Prinkipo Island. The case of the blood accusation in Pinsk is interesting. A Jewish and non-Jewish boy came to blows in the street, and the non-Jewish boy told his father that the Jewish boy had struck him. The father, thinking this an opportunity for making a charge against the Jews, tore his child's clothes, cut his body in several places with a rusty knife, and accused the Jewish boy of having inflicted the wounds for ritual purposes. Later, however, the injured child developed blood poisoning and was placed in a hospital. In his delirium, the child cried: "Father, why are you cutting me like this?" The physicians and nurses thereupon prevailed upon the father to confess.

Of special note is the case which occurred in Moscow. In April, 1922, Meir Gindin, seventy-five years old, while traversing the Theatre Square with a sack on his shoulders, was suddenly requested by a woman to show her the contents of the sack. When the old man refused, the woman began to cry that the Jew carried a dead child in his sack. A crowd gathered, and the woman, assisted by others snatched the sack from the old man and found that it actually contained a dead child. A riot ensued in the course of which the old Jew was severely beaten. The police arrested Gindin and others, including the woman, for inciting a crowd to riots and pogroms. At the police station it was found that the corpse was that of a Jewish boy who had died of influenza on his way from Kiev to Moscow. Gindin, having been sent by the president of the Moscow Kehillah and the director of the Jewish cemetery to bring the body, wishing to save the 300,000 rubles car-fare, had carried the corpse in a sack on his shoulders.

PUNISHMENT OF AGITATORS.—It is a hopeful sign that, during the year, Government authorities have shown more firmly than during the previous few years their intention to suppress anti-Jewish outbreaks and to mete out severe punishment to those found guilty of instigating or participating in such disorders. Thus in Poland the Government brought to trial many persons charged with inciting pogroms in previous years, and Premier Ponikowski announced in the sejm that an investigation by the military authorities showed that the execution of the thirty-one Jews in Pinsk, in August, 1919, was illegal, that the War Minister has returned to the Jewish community 100,000 Polish marks, and that the Government has advised pogrom victims to enter claims for compensation. The Government made no reference to punishment for the perpetrators of the outrages. In Austria also trials of those who had in past years participated in the anti-Jewish excesses were instituted. In Soviet Russia, the Government continued its policy of executing pogrom organizers and bandits who fell into their hands. Late in 1921 the Government captured fifty-two leaders of pogromists who had been operating in Crimea and in the Odessa region and sentenced them to death. The Committee of Jewish Delegations, Paris, have appointed a commission for gathering material toward the conviction of men like Savikov, Bolakovitch, and Makhno, who organized pogroms in the Ukraine and in White Russia.

The National Homeland

The civilized world continues to show its vital interest in the movement for the establishment of a national home for Jews in Palestine. On May 4, 1922, the Senate of the United States unanimously passed a resolution in favor of the restoration of Palestine as a national home for the Jewish people. The text of the Senate resolution reads as follows: "That the United States of America favors the establishment in Palestine of the National Home for the Jewish people, it being clearly understood that nothing shall be done which may prejudice the civil and religious rights of non-Jewish communities in Palestine, and that the holy places and religious buildings and sites in Palestine shall be adequately protected." An almost identical resolution was introduced in the House.

Of special interest is the pronouncement of the patriarch Meletios, head of the Greek-Orthodox Church of the East: "The Orthodox Church does not see any incovenience in the erection of a Jewish National Home in Palestine. The Orthodox Church received with great sympathy and satisfaction this righting of the injustice once done to the Jewish people... This young movement, called Zionism, which has for its aim the restoration of Palestine, is, and always was, viewed by us with favor."

In some quarters, however, adverse opinions have been expressed against the National Home idea. The opposition was based on fears that the rights of the present Palestinian inhabitants might be menaced by Jewish immigration. In Palestine itself the opposition to the Mandate and Jewish immigration is confined only to a small circle of the upper classes and the landlords.

In July an Arab delegation left for London to influence public opinion against the ratification of the Mandate. Its work, however, had little effect. On the other hand, the Grand National Lodge of Egypt, in an appeal to their co-religionists in Palestine, wrote in part as follows: "Remember (may the Lord make the remembrance a worthy one for you) the French and the English in Canada form, despite the diversity of race and nationality, one people living in peace and harmony; remember that in Switzerland, the Germans, the Italians, and the French form one nation, despite the difference in creed. Switzerland finds a most valued element in its force and prosperity in their intimate collaboration and their real union in their common ideal.

Remember the Jews are our brothers and cousins who have been obliged to sojourn amongst strangers where they have obtained success and prosperity. To-day they are moved by a desire to return to you, to contribute to the grandeur and the welfare of their common fatherland by their riches and their experience and their knowledge. Arab and Hebrew are twin brothers, the issue of one source, Abraham; their fathers are Ishmael and Isaac. Their common collaboration will bring naught but advantages and blessings."

Jewish public opinion on the National Home idea in the United States may be said to be fully expressed in a letter to Senator Lodge by the President of the American Jewish Committee, Mr. Marshall, who wrote in part as follows: "I am not a Zionist and am therefore able to approach the subject free from prejudice, preconception or partisanship. The result of my reflection is that I regard the Balfour Declaration and all that it implies as one of the most impressive official pronouncements of modern statesmanship. That declaration favored the establishment in Palestine of a home for the Jewish people so that those of them who wished to work out their destiny in the ancient abode of Israel may do so in safety and under proper auspices. It very wisely qualifies the pronouncement with the expressed provisos that nothing shall be done which may prejudice the civil and the religious rights of existing non-Jewish communities in Palestine or the rights and political atatus enjoyed by Jews in any other country. I have observed within the past few days that a number of estimable gentlemen who admittedly represent a small minority of the Jews of the United States have voiced their objections to the Balfour Declaration. I am satisfied that their premises are erroneous and their fear groundless."

The Vatican opposes the Mandate out of apprehension as to adequate protection of the rights of Catholics in Palestine, and is especially interested in securing control over the holy places in Palestine.

The Palestine administration continued to expand. the Palestine Government instituted a new Department of Labor and opened a geological and mining branch in the Department of Commerce and Industry.

Late in the spring the Palestine Coverment organized the gendameries for the maintenance of peace. To a certain extent this organization was due to the riots that broke out in Jerusalem on November 2, in which a few Jews and a few Arabs were killed. The Jewish press blamed Governor Storrs for these disturbances.

COLONIZATION, COMMERCE, AND INDUSTRY.—21,000 dunams of sand-dunes lying along the coast were granted to the colony of Rishon-le-Zion. Small parcels of land were also granted to demobilized Jewish soldiers and others in Telarad and other places. The Jews, however, were displeased with the Government system of distribution of Crown land. It should be mentioned that the trans-Jordanian Government, which is ultimately to belong to Palestine, granted to a certain official a stretch of land amounting to 200,000 dunams. The concession provides that the Zionists should have no part in it.

It is, however, gratifying to note that the ICA succeeded in leasing, for a long term, from the Government some 50,000 dunams of marsh land in the district of Caesaria, on the condition that it drain the marshes in the next few years. The main work of Jewish colonization was centered in the valley of Jezreel under Zionist control. Another and perhaps more important field of colonization was carried on by the ICA in the district between Hedera and Atlit on the coast and the mountains of Ephraim on the east.

The ICA and the Zionist Organization in common established experimental stations.

Afforestation made good progress during the year. The High Commissioner appointed a commission to investigate and report on the afforestation of the sand-dunes along the coast. The Government was very active in the afforestation around Gaza, Acre, Carmel, and Wadi Rubin.

The British Government granted a concession to Pincus Rutenberg for the exploitation of water resources in Palestine. Tthe so-called Rutenberg plan provides for the electrification of Palestine by utilizing the Jordan and other waters. The British Government supported the electrification plans as advisable and necessary. Five million dollars are required. One million was subscribed in Europe. In the meantime some colonies began the exploitation of water power in their own behalf.

The economic development of Palestine is greatly handicapped by the lack of credit facilities. During the year the Ottoman Bank re-opened its branch in Jerusalem. There was organized the Urban Mortgage Bank and also the Workers' Bank.

The Government showed great energy in its efforts to expand and develop the industries of the country and these efforts seem to have met with success. Early in the year the Government appointed a commission to investigate and report on the small industries of the country.

Immigration.—Late in the summer the Government announced that only the following categories of people will be permitted to enter Palestine: (1) Travellers who do not intend to remain in the country for a period of more than three months; (2) persons who possess five hundred pounds or an assured income of about seven dollars a week; (3) professional men, such as doctors and lawyers; (4) wives, children and other persons wholly dependent on relatives in Palestine; (5) persons who have a definite prospect of employment with specific employers or enterprises; (6) returning residents.

All through the year the Jews in Palestine and the Zionist Organization have vehemenety protested against the Government's policy of restricting Jewish immigration. It is claimed that the economic development of the country demanded a much larger Jewish immigration.

JUDICIARY.—The Palestine administration issued a decree recognizing the validity of the Rabbinical Court in matters of family life.

PUBLIC HEALTH.—The year witnessed a marked reduction in malaria cases all over the country.

During the year Palestinian Jewry established a Wa'ad Ha-Beri'uth (Board of Health) which is to work in conjunction with the Department of Health of the Zionist Executive.

ORGANIZATIONS FOR THE RESTORATION OF PALESTINE.—Opposition to the present Zionist administration came from the following: the Agudath Israel and a group of Zionist leaders in France and Holland, as well as from such organizations as the Palestine Council in the United States and Binyon Haaretz in Germany The European dissenting Zionists held a conference at the Hague early in the spring of 1922. The Zionist Organization held its congress at Carlsbad. The president reported that the membership of the Zionist Organization has increased from 200,000 to 1,000,000 since the last Congress. The Congress adopted a budget of £650,000: Sanitary work, £100,000; workingmens fund (to settle workingmen already living in Palestine), £50,000 immigration, £90,000; agrarian, £200,000; experimental station, £10,000; sundry expenses, £25,000; commercial information bureau, £3000; administration, £25,000; education, £128,000; support of schools, £90,000; construction of new schools, £25,000; Haifa Technical School, £10,000; National Library in Jerusalem, £3000.

CONVENTIONS.—Conventions were held in the various countries by the General Zionist Organization, the Mizrachi, the Zeire Zion, the Poale Zion, and the He-Halutz. Special mention should be made of the Zionist convention in the United States, convention of the Mizrachi in Poland, of the Zeire Zion and He-Haluz in Lithuania.

During the year the Jewish National Fund succeeded in acquiring 52,500 dunams of land, so that at present it possesses 75,000 dunams.

At the last Congress the general outline of the Keren Hayesod Restoration Fund was agreed upon. The plans, however, which provide for intimate relationship between the Keren Hayesod and the Zionist Organization, as well as the methods of organization, created difficulties in some countries especially in the United States, where it led to a split and the formation of the Palestine Development Council. During the year the Keren Hayesod made progress in many countries, as for instance in Austria, Roumania, Poland, Italy, and the Union of South Africa. In Germany the Keren Hayesod organization does not follow strictly the lines laid down by the Zionist Congress. Late in November it was decided to raise $9,000,000 in the United States by January 1, 1923, and that the total expenses shall be limited to 10% of the funds collected. By April 1 the American Keren Hayesod raised approximatnly $1,500,00 and $4,000,000 in pledges.

By January 31, 1922, the Central Office of the Keren Hayesod in London had received £328,500. Of this total collected since the beginning of its establishment, £310,000 was spent in Palestine. Not one dollar was spent on the maintenance or support of the Zionist Organization.

The Palestinian Land Development Company during 1921 acquired land valued at £600,000 and disposed of land valued at £400,000. The Company declared a dividend of six per cent. An important event in the activities of this company, during the last year, was its purchase of property from the Greek patriarch for £250,000. The property included real estate in Jerusalem.

During the past year the ICA (Jewish Colonization Association) centered its activities in the Caesaria region, where it is engaged in drying the marshes, extending over 50,000 dunams of land. It is reported that the ICA spent last year six times as much as in previous years. It was also reported that the ICA offered to transport 60,000 Jews to Palestine provided the Zionist Organization guaranteed employment. It is worthy of note that the Anglo-Jewish Association, at its last annual conference, decided "that their representative shall take every opportunity of urging upon the council of the ICA the advisability of taking as large a share as possible" in the development of Palestine.

The Palestine Co-operative Company, a subsidiary of the Palestine Development Associates received authority to set aside from its fund $250,000 for the purpose of instituting a Building, Loan and Saving Association in Jerusalem.

During the year the British Economic Board held its annual meeting at which it was decided to organize a corporation with a capital of £200,000, to finance industrial enterprises in Palestine.

During the month of June, 1921, the Agudath Israel opened negotiations with the Foreign Office of the British Government concerning the Jewish Agency under Article 4 of the Palestine Mandate. On October 21, Mr. Winston S Churchill notified the organization that under the present circumstances only the Zionist Organization was recognized as the "Jewish Agency." All during the year, however, the Agudath Israel continued its campaign for recognition.

THE PALESTINE MANDATE.—Although the Palestine Mandate was approved by the Council of the League of Nations on July 24, 1922, and is therefore outside the scope of this Survey, owing to its importance, this document is herewith given in full:

Whereas the Principal Allied Powers have agreed, for the purpose of giving effect to the provisions of Article 22 of the Covenant of the League of Nations, to entrust to a Mandatory selected by the said Powers the administration of the territory of Palestine, which formerly belonged to the Turkish Empire, within such boundaries as may be fixed by them; and

Whereas the Principal Allied Powers have also agreed that the Mandatory should be responsible for putting into effect the declaration originally made on November 2, 1917, by the Government of His Britannic Majesty, and adopted by the said Powers, in favour of the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people, it being clearly understood that nothing should be done which might prejudice the civil and religious rights of existing non-Jewish communities in Palestine, or the rights and the political status enjoyed by Jews in any other country; and

Whereas recognition has thereby been given to the historical connexion of the Jewish people with Palestine and to the grounds for reconstituting their national home in that country; and

Whereas the Principal Allied Powers have selected His Britannic Majesty as the Mandatory for Palestine; and

Whereas the mandate in respect of Palestine has been formulated in the following terms and submitted to the Council of the League for approval; and

Whereas His Britannic Majesty has accepted the mandate in respect of Palestine, and undertaken to excercise it on behalf of the League of Nations in conformity with the following provisions; and

Whereas by the aforementioned Article 22 (Paragraph 8), it is provided that the degree of authority, control, or administration, to be exercised by the Mandatory not having been previously agreed upon by the Members of the League, shall be explicitly defined by the Council of the League of Nations;

Conforming the said Mandate, defines its terms as follows:—

Article 1.—The Mandatory shall have full powers of legislation and of administration, save as they may be limited by the terms of this mandate.

Article 2.—The Mandatory shall be responsible for placing the country under such political, administrative, and economic comditions as will secure the establishment of the Jewish national home, as laid down in the preamble, and the development of self-governing institutions and also for safeguarding the civil and religious rights of all the inhabitants of Palestine, irrespective of race and religion.

Article 3.—The Mandatory shall, so far as circumstances permit, encourage local autonomy.

Article 4.—An appropriate Jewish agency shall be recognized as a public body for the purpose of advising and co-operating with the Administration of Palestine in such economic, social and other matters as may affect the establishment of the Jewish national home and the interests of the Jewish population in Palestine, and, subject always to the control of the Administration, to assist and take part in the development of the country.

The Zionist organization, so long as its organization and constitution are, in the opinion of the Mandatory, appropriate, shall be recognized as such agency. It shall take steps, in consultation with His Britannic Mayesty's Government to secure the co-operation of all Jews who are willing to assist in the establishment of the Jewish national home.

Article 5.—The Mandatory shall be responsible for seeing that no Palestine territory shall be ceded or leased to, ar in any way placed under the control of the Government of any foreign Power.

Article 6.—The administration of Palestine, while ensuring that the rights and position of other sections of the population are not prejudiced, shall facilitate Jewish immigration under suitable conditions, and shall encourage, in co-operation with the Jewish agency referred to in Article 4, close settlement by Jews on the land, including State lands and waste lands not required for public purposes.

Article 7.—The administration of Palestine shall be responsible for enacting a nationality law. There shall be included in this law provisions framed so as to facilitate the acquisition of Palestinian citizenship by Jews who take up their permanent residence in Palestine.

Article 8.—The immunities and privileges of foreigners, including the benefits of consular jurisdiction and protection, as formerly enjoyed by capitulation or usage in the Ottoman Empire, shall not be applicable in Palestine. Unless the Powers whoose nationals enjoyed the aforementioned privileges and immunities on August 1, 1914, have previously renounced the right to their re-establishments, or have agreed to their non-application for a specified period, these privileges and immunities shall, at the expiration of the mandate, be immediately re-established in their entirety, or with such modifications as may have been agreed upon between the Powers concerned.

Article 9.—The Mandatory shall be responsible for seeing that the judicial system established in Palestine shall assure to foreigners, as well as to natives, a complete guarantee of their judicial rights. Respect for the personal status of the various peoples and communities, and for their religious interests, shall be fully guaranteed. In particular, the control and administration of the Wakfs shall be exercised in accordance with religious law and the dispositions of the founders.

Article 10.—Pending the making of special extradition agreements relating to Palestine, the extradition treaties in force between the Mandatory and other foreign Powers shall apply to Palestine.

Article 11.—The administration of Palestine shall take all necessary measures to safeguard the interests of the community in connexion with the development of the country, and, subject to any international obligations accepted by the Mandatory, shall have full power to provide for public ownership or control of any of the natural resources of the country or of the public works, services, and utilities established or to be established therein. It shall introduce a land system appropriate to the needs of the country, having regard, among other things, to the desirability of promoting the close settlement and intensive cultivation of the land.

The administration may arrange with the Jewish agency mentioned in Article 4 to construct or operate, upon fair and equitable terms, any public works, services, and utilities, and to develop any of the natural resources of the country, in so far as these matters are not directly undertaken by the Administration. Any such arrangements shall provide that no profits distributed by such agency, directly or indirectly, shall exceed a reasonable rate of interests on the capital, and any further profits shall be utilized by it for the benefit of the country in a manner approved by the Administration.

Article 12.—The Mandatory shall be entrusted with the control of the foreign relations of Palestine, and the right to issue exequaturs to consuls appointed by foreign Powers. He shall also be entitled to afford diplomatic and consular protection to citizens of Palestine when outside its territorial limits.

Article 13.—All responsibility in connexion with the Holy Places and religious buildings or sites in Palestine, including that of preserving existing rights, of securing free access to the Holy Places, religious buildings and sites, and the free exercise of worship, while ensuring the requirements of public order and decorum, is assumed by the Mandatory, who will be responsible solely to the League of Nations in all matters connected therewith, provided that nothing in this article shall prevent the Mandatory from entering into such arrangement as he may deem reasonable with the Administration for the purpose of carrying the provisions of this Article into effect; and provided also that nothing in this Mandate shall be construed as conferring upon the Mandatory authority to interfere with the fabric or the management of purely Moslem sacred shrines, the immunities of which are guaranteed.

Article 14.—A special commission shall be appointed by the Mandatory to study and define the rights and claims in connexion with the Holy Places and the rights and claims relating to the different religious communities in Palestine. The method of nomination, the composition and the functions of this Commission, shall be submitted to the Council of the League for its approval, and the Commission shall not be appointed or enter upon its functions without the approval of the Council.

Article 15.—The Mandatory shall see that complete freedom of conscience and the free exercise of all forms of worship, subject only to the maintenance of public order and morals, is ensured to all. No discrimination of any kind shall be made between the inhabitants of Palestine on the ground of race, religion or language. No person shall be excluded from Palestine on the sole ground of his religions belief.

The right of each community to maintain its own schools for the education of its own members in its own language, while conforming to such educational requirements of a general nature as the Administration may impose, shall not be denied or impaired.

Article 16.—The Mandatory shall be responsible for exercising such supervision over religious eleemosynary bodies of all faiths in Palestine as may be required for the maintenance of public order and good government. Subject to such supervision no measures shall be taken in Palestine to obstruct or interfere with the enterprise of such bodies or to discriminate against any representative or member of them on the ground of his religion or nationality.

Article 17.—The Administration of Palestine may organize on a voluntary basis the forces necessary for the preservation of peace and order, and also for the defence of the country, subject, however, to the supervision of the Mandatory, but shall not use them for purposes other than those above specified, save with the consent of the Mandatory. Except for such purposes, no military, naval, or air forces shall be raised or maintained by the Administration of Palestine.

Nothing in this article shall preclude the Administration of Palestine from contributing to the cost of the maintenance of forces maintained by the Mandatory. The Mandatory shall be entitled at all times to use the roads, railways, and ports of Palestine for the movement of armed forces and the carriage of fuel and supplies.

Article 18.—The Mandatory shall see that there is no discrimination in Palestine against the nationals of any State Member of the League of Nations (including companies incorporated under its laws, as compared with those of the Mandatory or of any foreign State in matters concerning taxation, commerce, or navigation, the excercise of industries or professions, or in the treatment of merchant vessels or civil aircraft. Similarly there shall be no discrimination in Palestine against goods originating in or destined for any of the said States, and there shall be freedom of transit under equitable conditions across the mandated area.

Subject as aforesaid and to the other provisions of this mandate, the Administration of Palestine may, on the advice of the Mandatory, impose such taxes and Customs duties as it may consider necessary, and take such steps as it may think best to promote the development of the natural resources of the country and to safeguard the interests of the population. It may also, on the advice of the Mandatory, conclude a special Customs agreement with any state, the territory of which in 1914 was wholly included in Asiatic Turkey or Arabia.

Article 19.—The Mandatory shall adhere on behalf of the Administration to any general international conventions already existing, or which may be concluded hereafter with the approval of the League of Nations, respecting the slave traffic, the traffic in arms and ammunitions or the traffic in drugs, or relating to commercial equality, freedom of transit and navigation, aerial navigation and postal, telegraphic and wireless communication or literary, artistic or industrial property.

Article 20.—The Mandatory shall co-operate on behalf of the Administration of Palestine, so far as religious, social and other conditions may permit, in the execution of any common policy adopted by the League of Nations for preventing and combating disease, including diseases of plants and animals.

Article 21.—The Mandatory shall secure the enactment within twelve months from this date, and shall ensure the execution of a Law of Antiquities based on the following rules. This law shall replace the former Ottoman Law of Antiquities, and shall ensure equality of treatment in the matter of archaeological research to the nationals of all States Members of the League of Nations:—

1. "Antiquity" means any construction or any product of human activity earlier than the year 1700.

2. The law for the protection of antiquities shall proceed by encouragement rather than by threat. Any person who, having discovered an antiquity without being furnished with authorization referred to in paragraph 5, reports the same to an official of the competent Department shall be rewarded according to the value of the discovery.

3. No antiquity may be disposed of except to the competent Department, unless this Department renounces the acquisition of any such antiquity. No antiquity may leave the country without an export license from the said Department.

4. Any person who maliciously or negligently destroys or damages an antiquity shall be liable to a penalty to be fixed.

5. No clearing of ground or digging with the object of finding antiquities shall be permitted, under penalty of fine, except to persons authorized by the competent Department.

6. Equitable terms shall be fixed for expropriation, temporary or permanent, of lands which might be of historical or archaeological interest.

7. Authorization to excavate shall only be granted to persons who show sufficient guarantees of archaeological experience. The Administration of Palestine shall not, in granting these authorizations, act in such a way as to eliminate scholars of any nation without good grounds.

8. The proceeds of excavations may be divided between the excavator and the competent Department in a proportion fixed by that Department. If division seems impossible for scientific reasons, the excavator shall receive a fair indemnity in lieu of a part of the land.

Article 22.—English, Arabic, and Hebrew shall be the official languages of Palestine. Any statement or inscription in Arabic on stamps or money in Palestine shall be repeated in Hebrew, and a statement or inscription in Hebrew shall be repeated in Arabic.

Article 23.—The Administration of Palestine shall recognize the Holy days of the respective communities in Palestine as legal days of rest for the members of such communities.

Article 24.—The Mandatory shall make to the Council of the League of Nations an annual report to the satisfaction of the Council, as to the measures taken during the year to carry out the provisions of the mandate. Copies of all laws and regulations promulgated or issued during the year shall be communicated with the report.

Article 25.—In the territories lying between the Jordan and the eastern boundary of Palestine as ultimately determined, the Mandatory shall be entitled, with the consent of the Council of the League of Nations, to postpone or withhold application of such provisions of this mandate as he may consider inapplicaple to the existing local conditions and to make such provisions for the administration of the territories as he may consider suitable to those conditions, provided no action shall be taken which is inconsistent with the provisions of Articles 15, 16 and 18.

Article 26.—The Mandatory agrees that if any dispute whatever should arise between the Mandatory and another member of the League of Nations relating to the interpretations or the application of the provisions of the Mandate, such dispute, it if cannot be settled by negotiation, shall be submitted to the Permanent Court of International Justice provided for by Article 14 of the Covenant of the League of Nations.

Article 27.—The consent of the Council of the League of Nations is required for any modification of the terms of this mandate.

Article 28.—In the event of the termination of the mandate hereby conferred aupon the Mandatory, the Council of the League of Nations shall make such arrangements as may be deemed necessary for safeguarding in perpetuity, under guarantees of the League, the rights secured by Articles 13 and 14, and shall use its influence for securing, under the guarantee of the League, that the Government of Palestine will fully honour the financial obligations, legitimately incurred by the Administration of Palestine during the period of the mandate, including the rights of public servants to pensions or gratuities.

The present instrument shall be deposited in original in the archives of the League of Nations and certified copies shall be forwarded by the Secretary-General of the League of Nations to all members of the League.

Compiled by I. George Dobsevage

This directory gives a list of Jews in the United States who have gained recognition in the world of science, art, religion, education, music, literature, drama, commerce, and in civic and public affairs. Without claiming to be exhaustive, and making due allowance for inadvertent omissions, this list of over seventeen hundred names attempts to give a fairly complete roster of Jews who are in one way or another contributing constructively to the development of life and thought of American Jewry or of the general community of the United States. A considerable number of those listed are well known throughout the civilized world.

The American Jewish Year Books 5664 (1903-1904), 5665 (1904 - 1905), 5666 (1905 - 1906), contained biographical sketches of rabbis, cantors, and of Jews prominent in the professions, arts, and sciences, as well as a list of communal workers in the United States. The Year Book 5678 (1917-1918) also published a list of rabbis in the United States. During the last eighteen years American Jewry has increased in numbers and importance, and it is therefore of interest to take a new census of Jewish ability.

The compilation of lists of this character presents numerous difficulties, and it is not always easy to draw the line of demarcation. It was, therefore, necessary to establish definite, though somewhat mechanical, standards. There are two classes to be considered: those whose achievements are universally recognized, and those included on account of the official positions they occupy An attempt has been made to maintain a uniform standard. All college professors (this designation includes associate, assistant, and clinical professors) and authors, whose books in their specialties are considered important, have been incorporated. It was obviously impossible to give every physician and surgeon who in his community is regarded as a good practitioner. In limiting this list it was necessary to give only such as were included in professional directories as men of science, or who occupied academic positions, or were authors of scientific books. In the legal profession a similar standard was more or less followed.

A person possessing several qualifications is designated by his profession and also by the specialty for which he is distinguished. Wherever possible information was obtained from recognized authorities in the various fields.

The list includes approximately 150 physicians and surgeons; 83 chemists; 125 scientists, covering such specialties as anthropology, zoology, bacteriology, horticulture, hygiene, philology, etc.; 37 engineers; 40 educators and teachers; 150 members of the legal profession; 19 members of either the present or past Congresses; half a dozen in the diplomatic service; 8 chess masters; 2 recipients of the Congressional Medal of Honor. The Army and Navy list is very meagre. It contains one rear-admiral and a few army officers above the rank of captain. There are over a hundred rabbis listed, representative of all shades of Jewish religious views. In an earlier Year Book (5678) a directory of all the rabbis was published, so that the present list, naturally, had to be confined to a special number. Those who may be grouped as civic, communal, social, and war relief workers, number about 150. The motion picture field, including directors, producers, and photographers, numbers about 30. Artists, including painters, etchers, illustrators, sculptors, number about 180, while 33 architects are listed. The stage is represented by 60 actors and 27 directors, producers, and managers. There are 27 dramatists and playwrights. The world of music is represented by 105 names, including musicians, composers, song writers, conductors, and teachers of music. Commerce is represented by 60 merchants and manufacturers and 30 bankers and financiers. Journalism is represented by 73 editors, 58 journalists, and about 25 newspaper publishers, while there are at least a dozen book publishers. This list contains 275 names of men who are writers, authors, novelists, or critics. There are 9 librarians and 4 bibliographers.

778, that is to say, about half of the entire list, are natives of the United States. 222 give no information on this point. About 400, or nearly one-quarter of the list, were born in Slavic countries; 160 in Germany, Austria, and Hungary, 23 in England, 15 in Roumania, 7 in France, 2 in Palestine, and one each in Australia, China, and Siberia.

The aim has been to list the most notable American Jews. It is thus an index to the contribution of Jews to the culture and civilization of America. Because of limitation of space, this list may be regarded merely as preparatory to an exhaustive "Who's Who," which is a desideratum.

The following are some of the sources of information used to secure the necessary data:

STATISTICS OF JEWS

By Harry S. Linfield, Ph. D.

Director, Department of Information and Statistics of the Bureau of Jewish Social Research.

Introductory Note

The tables which follow aim to give accurate present-day statistics of the Jews of the world. The population figures given below are based on the latest censuses where such are available, or, in the absence of official census figures, on the most reliable estimates to be found. The letter "c" following a figure indicates that it appears in a census, while the letter "e" indicates that the number is based on an estimate. Every entry is based upon the best available sources which are on file in the Department of Information and Statistics of the Bureau of Jewish Social Research. As the year of census or estimate of the Jewish population of a country does not always correspond to the year of census or estimate of the general population, both dates are given. This difference in time renders impossible, in many instances, the computation of the percentage of the Jewish population to the total.

It should be borne in mind that Jewish population statistics arrived at on the basis of a religious or a nationality census are likely to be inaccurate to some extent. This is partly due to the fact that there is sometimes a tendency on the part of census enumerators to minimize the number of persons of a minority religion or nationality, and partly because some Jews report their nationality as that of the majority population, or decline to answer the question of religion or nationality entirely.

In order to bring out more distinctly the geographical distribution of the Jews of the world, the leading table in the previous volume, "Number of Jews and the Percentage of Total Population by Countries," has been thoroughly revised, rearranged, and divided into five tables, numbered III to VII. Table IV, "The Jewish Population of Europe by Geographical Divisions and Countries," has been arranged to show that the war has not materially affected the geographical distribution of the Jews of Europe. The central portion of that region continues to remain the center of gravity of Jewish population, which comprises 9.3% of the total population. From the point of view of the distribution of Jews, Central Europe includes the following countries: Austria, Czecho-Slovak a, Hungary, Poland, Lithuania, Latvia, Esthonia, Roumania, Ukraine, West Russia, and White Russia. In the countries to the west and south of "Central Europe," namely, Germany, Denmark, Holland, Switzerland, France, Belgium, Luxemburg, Portugal, Spain, Italy, Jugo-Slavia, Bulgaria, Greece, and Turkey in Europe, the percentage of Jews to the total population is .59%, and in the countries to the north and east, namely, Norway, Sweden, Finland, Northern and Eastern Russia, the Jews comprise only .16% of the total population.

Several new tables appear in this volume, giving the Jewish population of France and dependencies, of the constituent parts of the former Russian empire, of the Jewish population of the Government of Podolia, Russia, by ages, showing the preponderance of females in a region ravaged by war and pogroms, of the Jewish population of important cities in Europe, Asia, and Africa, and of immigration statistics for Palestine.

The population tables for the United States have been copied, without change, from the preceding volume. It should, however, be stated that criticisms of some of the figures given have been received, and that the Bureau of Jewish Research has on its files corrected statistics for a number of cities, and is engaged in making studies for the purpose of a complete revision of the statistics for publication in a future volume of the Year Book.

B. Jewish Population of the United States

The Government of the United States, in making its various censuses, takes no account of religious affiliations. There are, therefore, no official, authoritative statistics of the Jewish population of the United States. All figures concerning the number of Jews in this country are based entirely upon estimates. Following is a table giving the number of Jews in the United States as estimated by various authorities at different times.

TABLE XIII

Estimates of the Jewish Population Made at Various Times

The latest estimate, that for 1918, was made by the Bureau of Jewish Statistics and Research of the American Jewish Committee, under the direction of Doctor Samson D. Oppenheim. A complete statement of the methods of computation which resulted in the figures presented is contained in the American Jewish Year Book 5679, pp. 31-74.

The last previous estimate, that made by the editor of the American Jewish Year Book in 1910, was based on the increase in the population of fifty cities during the years 1907-1910. For these fifty cities, the total population in 1910, as estimated by the Industrial Removal Office, was 15 per cent greater than that estimated by the editor of the American Jewish Year Book 5668. It was assumed that there had been a similar increase in the Jewish population throughout the country, and that the total Jewish population for 1907, given as 1,777,185, had by 1910 become 2,043,762.

The estimate made in 1907 by the editor of the AMERICAN JEWISH YEAR BOOK 5668 was obtained by securing from individuals in almost every Jewish community an estimate of the Jewish population of the place. These were added together and gave, as a basis for calculation, the figure 1,777,185. Table V gives the Jewish population, by states, as estimated at that time, and eleven years later by the Bureau of Jewish Statistics. It will be noted that, assuming these estimates to have been valid, the Jewish population of the United States has practically doubled within eleven years. The explanation of this extraordinary increase lies chiefly in the movement of Jews from abroad, the total number of Jewish immigrants during the period being 863,526.

Table VI, arranged according to geographical sections, will facilitate comparison with population tables given by the United States Census Bureau as the official estimates for 1918.

In the article on the Jewish Population of the United States, in the AMERICAN JEWISH YEAR BOOK 5679, attention was called to the interesting fact that nine-tenths of all Jews in the country live in the following twelve states of the union: New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Massachusetts, Ohio, New Jersey, Missouri, Connecticut, California, Maryland, Michigan, and Indiana (see Table VII). It will be noted that seventy-five per cent of the total are residents of the five states ranking first in manufactures, according to the United States census of 1910, namely, New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Massachusetts, and Ohio.

Another point of interest developed by the inquiry of the Bureau of Jewish Statistics and Research is that approximately three-quarters of the Jewish population of the United States are concentrated in only ten cities which hold only about 14 per cent of the total general population of the United States. This brings out graphically the industrial and commercial tendencies of the Jewish population of the United States.

In the following table of cities in which there are more than 1000 Jewish inhabitants, the total general population for 1917, as estimated by the Census Bureau, is also given, in order to facilitate comparison. The Bureau of Jewish Social Research is at present engaged on a statistical survey of the Jewish population of the principal cities of the United States, based on the Jewish death rate and Jewish attendance in the elementary schools. It is hoped that it will be possible to include the results of this survey in the next issue of the YEAR BOOK.

[1] 9000 according to a recent estimate of the Federation of Jewish Charities of that city.

Approximately a half of the Jews in the United States reside in the city of New York, where they constitute about twenty-five per cent of the total population. The following table of the Jewish population of New York City, by boroughs, as estimated from figures of public school attendance by Doctor Alexander Dushkin, is taken from the Jewish Communal Register, published by the New York Kehillah, in 1918.

TABLE XIX

ESTIMATE OF THE JEWISH POPULATION OF NEW YORK CITY BY BOROUGHS

Manhattan	696,000
The Bronx	211,000
Brooklyn	568,000
Queens	23,000
Richmond	5,000
Total	1,503,000

It is interesting to note that, while New York contains such a large quota of the Jews of the United States, it is not proportionately the most Jewish city. Chelsea, Mass., has a Jewish population of 13,000, or twenty-eight per cent of the general population. The three Jewish agricultural colonies which make up the bulk of the populations of Rosenhayn, Carmel, and Woodbine, all in New Jersey, constitute, respectively, fifty per cent, sixty per cent, and one hundred per cent of the general population of those places.

C. Jewish Immigration Into the United States

The following tables give the main figures relating to the Jewish immigration into the United States from the year 1881 to June 30, 1919. For the earlier years, from 1881 to 1900, the results are only for the ports of New York, Philadelphia, and Baltimore; from 1899 onwards, the figures are from the reports of the Commissioner-General of Immigration. In some instances the figures refer only to the year 1917-1918, continuing those of previous issues of the Year Book.

The complete statistics of immigration to the United States, as shown by the Commissioner-General's reports, are given below for the period 1899-1921. It will be seen that for this period of twenty-two years Jewish immigration has been 1,684,643, amounting to 10.46 per cent of the total immigration.

Since 1908 the number of aliens leaving the United States is given as well as the number admitted. It will be observed that for the fourteen years the total number of Jews returning is approximately 6 per cent of the Jews admitted. This figure contrasts strikingly with the total number of departures, which is over 33 per cent.

[1] Year ending June 30.

The Jewish immigration since 1881 is approximately 2,150,000. On the basis of the percentage emigrating from the United States since 1908, the total number who departed during this period would be 149,000, leaving a net increase through immigration of 2,001,000.

Of interest in connection with the number of immigrants admitted are the data for those rejected on application for admission and those deported from the United States after admission. The figures are shown in the table below.

[1] Year ending June 30.

During a period of twenty-two years, the number of Jews rejected on application for landing was 22,416, or approximately 7.27 per cent of the total number of immigrants debarred. This is considerably less than the proportion which Jews form of the total immigration for the same period, which is 10.46 per cent.

For the same period the number of Jews deported after landing was 2,072, or 6.18 per cent of the total number deported. This, again, is lower than the proportion of Jews in the total immigration.

IMMIGRATION 1920-1921

Statistics for the year ending June 30, 1922, are not yet available. The significant facts respecting the immigration of the previous year are given herewith.

During 1920-1921 there were admitted 119,036 Jews. The number departing was 483. The net increase through immigration was thus 118,553. The net increase for 1919-1920 was 13,934. The figures for 1920-1921 as also those for the three previous years betray the influence of the European war, and the unsettled conditions following it, on Jewish as on general immigration.

The larger percentage of women and children among Jewish immigrants is indicative of the permanent and family character of this immigration, an aspect which is further emphasized by the low percentage of Jewish immigrants departing from the United States.

D. Jewish Immigration Into Canada

For a period of twenty-one years, beginning July 1, 1900, the Jewish immigration into Canada was 78,877. The immigration during the past fiscal year, ending March 31, 1921, was 2763.

Below are shown the yearly figures. It will be observed that during this period the Jewish immigration has amounted to approximately nine per cent of the immigration from all countries exclusive of the United States and the United Kingdom, but less than 2 per cent of the total immigration.

FIFTEENTH ANNUAL MEETING

November 13, 1921.

The Fifteenth Annual Meeting of the American Jewish Committee was held at the Hotel Astor, New York City, on Sunday, November 13, 1921. Louis Marshall, Esq., presided, and the following members were present: Cyrus Adler, Milton M. Adler, Jacob Asher, Herman Bernstein, David A. Brown, Isaac Cohen, A. J. Dimond, David A. Ellis, Harry Fischel, Simon Fleischmann, Isaac W. Frank, Lee K. Frankel, Felix Fuld, Lewis Goldberg, Henry M. Goldfogel, Alexander Kaufman, Otto Kaufman, Lewis E. Kirstein, Max J. Kohler, David Kornblueh, Samuel C. Lamport, Henry Lasker, Ephraim Lederer, Irving Lehman, B. L. Levinthal, Solon J. Liebeskind, David A. Lourie, Julian W. Mack, H. Masliansky, S. Neumann, Louis M. Raffel, Morris Rosenbaum, Julius Rosenwald, Henry Sachs, Isaiah Scheeline, Bernard Semel, Charles H. Shapiro, P. A. Siegelstein, Joseph Silverman, C. D. Spivak, Horace Stern, Benjamin Stolz, Oscar S. Straus, Lewis Strauss, Jr., Cyrus L. Sulzberger, Felix Vorenberg, A. Leo Weil, and Isidore Wise.

Appointment of Committees

The President appointed the following Committee on Nominations: Messrs. Simon Fleischmann, Benjamin Stolz, and Herman Bernstein; and the following Auditing Committee: Messrs. Isaac W. Frank, Harry Fischel, and P. A. Siegelstein.

Presentation of Annual Report

The Executive Committee presented its report for the past year. Upon motion, the report was received and ordered printed.

Elections

The Committee on Nominations made the following recommendations:

For Officers:

President: Louis Marshall.

Vice-Presidents: Cyrus Adler and Julius Rosenwald.

Treasurer: Isaac W. Bernheim.

For Members of the Executive Committee to serve for three years from January 1, 1922.

Cyrus Adler	Albert D. Lasker
Abram I. Elkus	A. Leo Weil

To Fill Expired Terms or Vacancies:

District	I.	Lionel Weil, Goldsboro, to be re-elected for term expiring 1926.
District	III.	Isaac H. Kempner, Galveston, to be re-elected for term expiring 1926.
District	IV.	Aaron Waldheim, St. Louis, to be re-elected for term expiring 1926.
District	V.	Max C. Sloss, San Francisco, to be re-elected for term expiring 1926.
District	VI.	David A. Brown, Detroit; Meyer S. May, Grand Rapids, to be re-elected for term expiring 1926.

District VII.	W. B. Woolner, Peoria, to be re-elected for term expiring 1926.
District X.	Julius Levy, Baltimore, to be re-elected for term expiring 1926.
District XI.	Charles H. Shapiro, Bridgeport; Isaac M. Ullman, New Haven; Jacob Asher, Worcester; David A. Lourie, Boston, to be re-elected for term expiring 1926.
District XIII.	Louis J. Kopald, Buffalo, to be re-elected for term expiring 1926.
District XIV.	Joseph B. Perskie, Atlantic City; Alexander Kaufman, Elizabeth; Isador Sobel, Erie, to be re-elected for term expiring 1926.
At Large	Herman Bernstein, Nathan Bijur, Abel Davis, Charles Eisenman, Abram I. Elkus, S. Marcus Fechheimer, Lee K. Frankel, Herbert Friedenwald, Louis E. Kirstein, Max J. Kohler, Albert D. Lasker, Irving Lehman, Jacob M. Loeb, Jules E. Mastbaum, Henry Sachs, Horace Stern, Oscar S. Straus and Lewis Strauss, Jr.

There being no other nominations, the Assistant Secretary was requested to cast one ballot for the nominees of the Committee on Nominations, which he did, and announced the election of the several nominees.

The Committee on Auditing the Accounts of the Treasurer reported that it had duly audited these accounts and found them to be correct.

Amendments to By-Laws

The Amendments to the By-Laws as proposed by the Executive Committee in its Report (see p. 371) were discussed and adopted.

Upon motion, the meeting adjourned.

Harry Schneiderman,
Assistant Secretary.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE AMERICAN JEWISH COMMITTEE:

When the Committee met one year ago, our chief concern was what then appeared to be an organized, well-financed, and unscrupulous propaganda against the good name of the Jewish people. A large part of the time of the Fourteenth Annual Meeting was devoted to a discussion of this insidious agitation.

In their endeavors to foster their sinister creed in the more progressive countries of Western Europe and in the United States, these agitators found that they could no longer make use of those anti-Jewish accusations which had brought martyrdom to hosts of our people during the middle ages and even in the twentieth century in the Russia of the Czars.

Taking advantage of the passions and hatreds aroused by the World War which resulted in the abolition of privilege, the overthrow of thrones, and the dismemberment of empires, these discredited agitators attempted to satisfy the universal demand for a scapegoat by pointing to the Jews as the "cause of world unrest," and from the rubbish heap of exploded libels and calumnies they evolved a stupid, inane, clumsy forgery and made of it the foundation of their malignant attack upon the Jewish people.

The past year saw the collapse of this dastardly agitation so far as our country is concerned. The appeal to the spirit of justice made to the American people by this Committee in conjunction with eight other national Jewish organizations met with a response which was most heartening in its enthusiasm. With one voice the press of the country disavowed and condemned the known and anonymous malcontents who had been instrumental in endeavoring to poison American life and institutions with race hatred and distrust. The Committee has collected thousands of newspaper editorials denouncing this agitation as dangerous to the wholesome development of American ideals.

The Church was not slow to follow the lead of the Press. The statement of the Jewish organizations was issued on December 1, 1920. Four days later there was held at Boston, Massachusetts, the quadrennial convention of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America. At that meeting, attended by delegates representing thirty denominations and one hundred and fifty thousand churches, the following resolution was adopted:

"Whereas, For some time past there have been in circulation in this country publications tending to create race prejudice and arouse animosity against our Jewish fellow-citizens and containing charges so preposterous as to be unworthy of credence, be it resolved that the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, impressed by the need at this period of our national existence for unity and brotherhood, deplores all such cruel and unwarranted attacks upon our Jewish brethren and in a spirit of good-will extends to them an expression of confidence in their patriotism and their good citizenship and earnestly admonishes our people to express disapproval of all actions which are conducive to intolerance or tend to the destruction of our national unity through arousing racial division in our body politic.

On the 24th of December the American Committee on the Rights of Religious Minorities issued a similar protest.

On the 16th of January, the following protest, prepared under the initiative of John Spargo, signed by one hundred and nineteen distinguished American Christians from every walk of life, was made public:

The Peril of Racial Prejudice

A Statement to the Public

The undersigned citizens of Gentile birth and Christian faith, view with profound regret and disapproval the appearance in this country of what is apparently an organized campaign of anti-Semitism, conducted in close conformity to and co-operation with similar campaigns in Europe. We regret exceedingly the publication of a number of books, pamphlets and newspaper articles designed to foster distrust and suspicion of our fellow-citizens of Jewish ancestry and faith—distrust and suspicion of their loyalty and their patriotism.

These publications, to which wide circulation is being given, are thus introducing into our national political life a new and dangerous spirit, one that is wholly at variance with our traditions and ideals and subversive of our system of government. American citizenship and American democracy are thus challenged and menaced. We protest against this organized campaign of prejudice and hatred not only because of its manifest injustice to those against whom it is directed, but also, and especially, because we are convinced that it is wholly incompatible with loyal and intelligent American citizenship. The logical outcome of the success of such a campaign must necessarily be the division of our citizens along racial and religious lines, and, ultimately, the introduction of religious tests and qualifications to determine citizenship.

The loyalty and patriotism of our fellow citizens of the Jewish faith is equal to that of any part of our people, and requires no defense at our hands. From the foundation of this Republic down to the recent World War, men and women of Jewish ancestry and faith have taken an honorable part in building up this great nation and maintaining its prestige and honor among the nations of the world. There is not the slightest justification, therefore, for a campaign of anti-Semitism in this country.

Anti-Semitism is almost invariably associated with lawlessness and with brutality and injustice. It is also invariably found closely intertwined with other sinister forces, particularly those which are corrupt, reactionary and oppressive.

We believe it should not be left to men and women of Jewish faith to fight this evil, but that it is in a very special sense the duty of citizens who are not Jews by ancestry or faith. We therefore make earnest protest against this vicious propaganda, and call upon our fellow citizens of Gentile birth and Christian faith to unite their efforts to ours, to the end that it may be crushed. In particular, we call upon all those who are molders of public opinion—the clergy and ministers of all Christian churches, publicists, teachers, editors and statesmen—to strike at this un-American and un-Christian agitation.

The Committee had printed a large edition of the Jewish address to the American people and sent copies to men and women in public life throughout the country. Hundreds of unsolicited responses were received, all of them, with insignificant exceptions, expressing sincere good will towards the Jewish people and confidence in their integrity.

A number of publications which have enlightened the American public as to the baselessness of the absurd accusations against the Jewish people, have aided in bringing about the collapse of the agitation. First, were the scholarly articles published in various British periodicals by Mr. Lucien Wolf, who traced the history of the absurd charge of a Jewish plot to overthrow civilization, proving conclusively that "the stupendous hallucination," invented by Bourbon apologists at the time of the French Revolution and revived from time to time by the champions of reaction, is a "German anti-Semitic and Anglophobe myth, founded in malice and hysteria, built up by garbled history, and synthesized by impudent forgery."

These essays were followed by the publication of "The Jew and American Ideals," by Mr. John Spargo. After analyzing the various accusations directed against the Jews, Mr. Spargo makes an eloquent plea to the American people "for America's safety and honor" to unite in suppressing anti-Semitism, "this sinister foe lurking within the gates, as against all other foes no matter under what flag they may be marshalled."

At about the same time Mr. Israel Zangwill published "The Voice of Jerusalem," a volume of essays and poems.

In a brilliant article entitled "The Legend of the Conquering Jew," Mr. Zangwill analyzes the pretended fear of modern Jew-baiters of a "Jewish peril" and the basic accusation that the Jews seek world domination, and skilfully multiplies the proofs of the utter falsity and ludicrousness of the fear and the accusation.

Shortly after Mr. Spargo's book appeared, Mr. Herman Bernstein, the well-known journalist and a member of this Committee, published "The History of a Lie," disclosing Russian documents found in the Congressional Library at Washington which demonstrate beyond the peradventure of a doubt that the author of the Protocols derived his inspiration from German anti-Semitic literature which had been translated into Russian in various forms, first in 1871 and later in 1891, which was used by the Russian Czarist police to incite pogroms against Jews. The London Time's articles about to be referred to subsequently made it clear from what source the German writings were derived.

A few months later, there appeared in a Russian newspaper, published in Paris under the auspices of leaders of the Constitutional Democratic Party, an article by M. A. du Chayla, a Frenchman by birth, who was a commander of Cossacks during the war. M. du Chayla stated that in 1909 he spent nine months at the Monastery where Sergei Nilus, who first published the Protocols of 1905, lived. According to M. du Chayla's statement, it would appear that the original manuscript of the Protocols was transmitted to Nilus by General Rachkovsky, one time head of the Russian political police in France, under whose inspiration the "document" was fabricated with a view to its use in inciting the Russian populace against the Jews at a time when the security of the autocracy was threatened by revolution.

One of the most significant passages in M. du Chayla's recital deals with the manner in which the Protocols were used. The first two editions attracted scarcely any attention in Russia. The first indication of public interest became apparent in 1918. "A new edition of the Protocols," says M. du Chayla in the course of his remarkable statement, "was published by Ismailoff, a Moscow lawyer. The Sentinel, a publication marked for its constant pogrom agitation, was advertising the new edition. In February, 1919, however, the Diet of the Don ordered the suppression of this publication. The centre of anti-Semitic propaganda was then transferred to Rostoff, the seat of the Department of Propaganda for the army of General Denikine. From Rostoff the Protocols were sent out in great numbers and distributed among the units of the volunteers and among the Cossack troops at Kouban. They served as fuel to a violent agitation in favor of pogroms and brought lurid and pernicious results. This propaganda demoralized the troops and gave them a justification for the pillages which were a cause of their eventual defeat. A circular against this propaganda was sent to all the chaplains at the front by Arch-priest George Schavelsky, head of the military clergy, but the effects of this circular were paralyzed by the attitude of the commanding officers. . . . Crimea, during the regime of General Wrangel, was especially noted for anti-Semitic propaganda based on the Protocols. Professor Malakhoff, the priest Vostokoff, and some journalists subsidized by the government announced at the top of their voices the danger of the Protocols and the universal Judeo-Masonic plot."

The most interesting and conclusive proof of the falsity of the Protocols, however, came from an altogether unexpected source. When they first appeared in England in a volume entitled "The Jewish Peril," The Times of London published in the guise of a book review, a long editorial article in which it professed to see in "some features of the would-be Jewish program" an "uncanny resemblance to situations and events now developing under our eyes," and that "some of the passages assume the aspect of fulfilled prophecies unless one is inclined to attribute the prescience of the "Elders of Zion" to the fact that they really are the hidden instigators of these events."

Again in its earlier articles The Times had asked: "Have we been struggling these tragic years to blow up and extirpate the secret organization of German world dominion only to find beneath it another more dangerous because more secret? Have we, by straining every fibre of our national body, escaped a 'Pax Germanica' only to fall into a 'Pax Judæica?' The 'Elders of Zion,' as represented in their 'Protocols', are by no means kinder taskmasters than William II and his henchmen would have been." The broadside concluded with a recommendation for "an impartial investigation of these would-be documents" which "would appear, from internal evidence, to have been written by Jews for Jews."

This outburst of The Times, still regarded by many people in English-speaking countries as "the Thunderer", was eagerly welcomed by the disseminators of "The Protocols," who gloated over the support given to their work by so powerful a public organ. But, mirabile dictu, it was The Times itself, which, in a series of articles contributed by its Constantinople Correspondent and published on August 16, 17, and 18, 1921, incontrovertibly demonstrated that "The Protocols" consist in the main of "clumsy plagiarisms" from a French political pamphlet directed against Napoleon III and published in Brussels in 1865 by a French lawyer named Maurice Joly, and entitled "Dialogues in Hell between Machiavelli and Montesquieu." To use the language of a Times editorial, "the author of the Protocols simply copied a number of passages in which Machiavelli is made to enunciate the doctrines and tactics of despotism as they were at that time practised by Napoleon and put them into the mouth of an imaginary Jewish Elder. For many years there was a close connection between the Russian and the French police, and one of the confiscated copies of Joly's book may easily have fallen into the hands of a Russian agent—such as Rachkovsky, at Paris, to whom other and more clumsy forgeries have been traced—and may have inspired him to invent a weapon for use against Jewish revolutionaries. At any rate, the fact of the plagiarism has now been conclusively established and the legend may be allowed to pass into oblivion."

In many particulars, The Times exposure corroborated statements made by M. du Chayla in his article referred to above.

While the Protocols are so inherently absurd and preposterous that no intelligent person not blinded by hatred required these elaborate analyses to prove them to be spurious, yet there were many who were easily duped into giving them serious consideration, and it should be a source of gratitude to the Almighty that truth has again prevailed and that the world can see that "Israel has no secret protocols, no hidden designs. After all its tribulations, its dream is still of peace, justice, and of human brotherhood. After all the centuries the word that came from Sinai and the message of the prophets of old are still enshrined in its heart."

The Committee conducted an investigation with a view to discovering the identity of those who instigated the attacks against the Jews of America. It was found that they consisted of a group of Russian emigrés who had wormed themselves into the confidence of some Americans who, in turn, had succeeded in securing the assistance of others whose co-operation was given either because they were gullible and believed the fantastic inventions of men schooled in intrigue in the Russian police system, or because they already cherished ill-will against Jews and were ready to assist in any movement through which they could satisfy real or fancied grudges. Happily, the Russian agitators have been deserted by most of their whilom friends, and the only group which does not appear to accept the overwhelming evidence of the falsity of the entire propaganda is Henry Ford and his hired "experts" who continue to publish "revelations" and "exposés" about the formidable "International Jew," in each issue of the Dearborn Independent, the Ford International Weekly. Each article surpasses its predecessor in exhibiting the ineptitude, the ignorance, and the malevolence of the "experts," who cannot conceal their wrath at the growing indifference which the public is manifesting towards their vicious lucubrations, and they have lashed themselves into a frenzy, because they have failed in their efforts to evoke a polemical campaign which they had hoped would secure for them publicity otherwise unattainable, and which is the very breath of their nostrils.

This fiasco as well as the recent exposure of the Ku Klux Klan, and the universal condemnation with which that organization has met in this country are significant indications that the American people will not long tolerate sinister movements which endanger national harmony, and that their good sense and their passion for justice may always be relied upon by those who have naught to fear from falsehood.

Immigration

One of the consequences of the war has been a tendency on the part of Chauvinists to arouse suspicion and racial and national antagonisms against foreigners, of which propagandists have not been slow to take advantage. Misstatements which have been sown broadcast throughout the country have not failed in some quarters to further mistrust of those who have come here from other lands. Economic conditions have likewise contributed to agitation against the maintenance of the policy of "the open door for immigration." Many recruits have thus been added to the ranks of those who for many years have been urging restriction of immigration, despite the signal proofs which were shown during the World War that immigrants are not lacking in patriotism and in their willingness to make any sacrifices in order to cherish that idealism for which America is a synonym everywhere. As a consequence a number of illiberal and unwise bills to bar immigrants have for the past two years been proposed in Congress. In 1920 this Committee appeared before the House Committee on Immigration and Naturalization in opposition to a restrictive immigration policy. The published report of the House Hearings will indicate the nature of the discussions.

On January 3, 1921, the United States Senate Committee on Immigration held a hearing on a bill which had passed the House and which provided for a total suspension of immigration for a limited period. This organization was represented before that Committee by your President, who discussed at length the many objections to this measure on the grounds not only of humanity but also of practicability and justice. We refer to the Hearings of the Senate Committee, to illustrate the range of the argument that it was found necessary to present to that body. The House bill was rejected. The Senate adopted a bill which in effect limited the number of immigrants of any nationality to be admitted in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, to three per cent of the number of foreign born persons of that nationality resident in the United States, as determined by the Census of 1910. As a result of a conference between the two Houses the Senate bill was passed shortly before the expiration of his term of office, and was presented to President Wilson for executive action. Your Committee submitted a brief in opposition to the measure. The last official act of the President was to administer a "pocket veto," three restrictive immigration bills having been disapproved by him during his term of office.

At the succeeding session of Congress a bill substantially in the same form as that vetoed was enacted by Congress and came before President Harding for action. It was found not practicable to afford an oral hearing to those opposing the legislation, but with executive consent this Committee submitted the following memorandum, which, however, failed of its object, the President affixing his signature to the bill as passed.

New York, May 17, 1921.

Dear Mr. President:

With your kind permission I will briefly state on behalf of various organizations that I represent, including the American Jewish Committee, of which I am the President, reasons why H. R. Bill 4075, as passed by both Houses, should not become a law. In substance, the bill undertakes to restrict immigration so that the number of aliens of any nationality who may be admitted under the immigration laws to the United States in any fiscal year shall be limited to three percentum of the number of foreign-born persons of such nationality resident in the United States as determined by the Census of 1910. The bill is to take effect fifteen days after its enactment and is to continue in force until June 30, 1922.

1) There is no existing emergency that calls for any further restriction upon immigration than that created under existing legislation.

The present law proceeds on a selective basis. It excludes all persons who are mentally, physically and morally unfit. It prohibits the entry of those who are likely to become a public charge. It declares as unfit those who are opposed to organized government, those who favor anarchy and polygamy, and likewise those who are illiterate. This law, if properly enforced by qualified inspectors, would eliminate all persons who are undesirable and admit only those who would become, as their precursors have been, valuable assets of the country. Efforts have been made from time to time, by special interests, to prohibit immigration absolutely or to restrict it in such manner as to be tantamount to a policy of exclusion. President Cleveland vetoed such a measure in 1897. President Roosevelt prevented the passage of a similar measure by his advocacy of a bill which was passed, providing for a thorough investigation of the entire subject of immigration by a Congressional committee. President Taft vetoed a restrictive measure in 1913. President Wilson vetoed three bills of like effect. The theory on which these bills were passed was that an excessive number of immigrants were coming to this country and that their presence here tended to injure our native-born population. The unsoundness of this contention is evidenced by the fact that, because of immigration, the development of our industries was greatly promoted and the shortage of man-power, which would otherwise have limited our commercial, agricultural, and industrial progress, was curtailed.

During the war our foreign-born population and their children responded to the call to arms in hundreds of thousands of instances. Those who had not even become declarants became volunteers or waived their exemption from conscription, and rendered loyal service to our country, laying down their lives and sacrificing their health in its behalf. During that period nobody suggested that our foreign-born population was too large.

At the last session of Congress it was contended that an emergency existed which required the closing of our ports to immigration, that the number of immigrants was too great for absorption. The facts, however, demonstrated that there was no justification for such a contention, and the Senate Committee so reported. The total increase in our foreign population between 1910 and 1920 was 358, 443, or an average of 35,844 per annum. In view of the fact that there had been years prior to 1910 when this country absorbed 1,000,000 of immigrants, the suggestion of the existence of an emergency is purely hysterical. From August 1, 1914, until the spring of 1920, there was but little immigration, due to the war, a large proportion of those coming to the United States during that period being Canadians and Mexicans. Excluding the latter, there has actually been a decrease in our foreign-born population during the last decade. That is due to the fact that many immigrants returned to their native lands, others went abroad with the American Expeditionary Force, and still others died in the natural course of events.

Covering even a longer period than the last decade, the movement of transatlantic passengers from and to Europe since 1893 shows that during twenty-seven years there was a net inward movement of about 7,700,000 or about 335,000 passengers per annum for the whole period, which, as we know, has been, industrially and commercially, the most active in our history. Since steamship transportation has again become active, namely, beginning with the spring of 1920, the records show that during that year the excess of immigration over emigration in the United States has amounted to 193,514. For the period beginning July 1, 1920, the net immigration has been somewhat larger, but, making all allowances, it cannot aggregate for the entire fiscal year ending June 30, 1921, to exceed 450,000. All these figures are to be found in the hearings before the Senate Committee on Immigration held during the last session.

These facts demonstrate that no emergency exists calling for the suspension of immigration, or for any change in the law imposing new restrictions upon immigration. Although there has been a temporary relaxation in production in some of our industries, in the early part of 1920, it was shown by the Inter-Racial Council, as the result of a careful survey, that there was a lack of man-power in our agricultural and industrial activities amounting to approximately 4,000,000. It is certain that in a very short time our industries will be speeded to such an extent in order to maintain adequate productivity, that a dearth of workmen will again be realized.

2) Independent of these considerations, a limitation of immigration based upon the nationality of the immigrants and of foreign-born persons of the same nationality resident in the United States is unsound.

Such a restriction does not proceed upon a selective basis. It is arbitrary. It is grounded upon mere accident. It is discriminatory. It is, in reality, a mere pretext for the introduction of a policy of exclusion which the propounders of this measure have not the hardihood to advocate. It is the theory of those who favor this measure that if immigration from the various countries should proceed along the three per cent basis, Western and Northern Europe would be entitled to 202,212 immigrants, and Southern and Eastern Europe to 153,249 immigrants, making a grand total of 355,461. Upon this basis the number of persons who could come into the United States from the various countries would be as follows:

Belgium	1,482
Denmark	5,449
France	3,523
Germany	75,040
The Netherlands	3,624
Norway	12,116
Sweden	19,956
Switzerland	3,745
United Kingdom	77,206

It is to be noted that of our late companions in arms Belgium and France would be entitled to just 5,000. On the other hand, Germany our enemy, would be entitled to 75,000, provided Germany were to permit emigration, and provided further that the Germans felt inclined to migrate to the United States. The United Kingdom would be entitled to 77,206, although we know that for many years past emigration from there to this country has been quite limited.

On the same basis the number of immigrants who could be admitted to the United States from Southern and Eastern Europe would be as follows:

Austria-Hungary	50,117
Bulgaria	345
Servia	139
Montenegro	161
Greece	3,038
Italy	40,294
Portugal	1,781
Roumania	1,978
Russia	51,974
Spain	663
Turkey-in-Europe	967
Turkey-in-Asia	1,792

It is understood that Italy has recently promulgated a law or entered into a treaty that is designed to cut off emigration. There is practically little migration from Russia. The manifest purpose, therefore, evident from these figures is not only to discriminate against Southern and Eastern Europe, but to shut off immigration altogether.

It is also significant that, although the figures of the Census of 1920 were accessible before the passage of this bill, it proceeds entirely upon the Census of 1910. It might as well have proceeded according to the Census of 1900. It would have been no more arbitrary.

3) Under existing conditions the entire scheme would either prove unworkable or would lead to grave injustice and inequality.

Since the Census of 1910 was taken the map of Europe has been greatly changed. Austria-Hungary has been partitioned and subdivided. A part of its territory has been annexed to Italy, another part has been included in Czecho-Slovakia, and still another in the Croat-Serb-Slovene state, and a large section has been incorporated into Roumania. Galicia, together with other territory, has been made a part of Poland restored. Roumania has become greatly enlarged by the addition of Transylvania and Bessarabia. Russia has been carved up into new states, including Poland, Latvia, Esthonia, Lithuania, Finland, and the Ukraine. Poland has been built up out of what was once a part of Russia and Austria, and has also acquired an important share of what was once German territory.

The bill refers to aliens of any nationality as determined by the United States Census of 1910. That census merely takes into account the several states into which Europe was then subdivided. Thus take the case of Austria-Hungary: The census merely shows an aggregate number of persons who came from some part of Austria-Hungary. It may have been from Bohemia, or Slovakia, or Transylvania, or Galicia, or Trentino, or Croatia, or Bosnia, or Herzegovina. The nationality of those who now come from the former territory of Austria-Hungary may be Polish or Bulgarian, or Roumanian, or Czecho-Slovakian, or Italian, or of the Croat-Serb-Slovene state. How would it be possible to determine whether or not a shipload of immigrants arriving here after this bill should become a law are entitled to be received? How would the mathematical problem created by this state of affairs be worked out? Are people to be turned back arbitrarily? Is the rule of thumb to prevail? Is a public officer to be permitted to guess or conjecture or to allow his imagination to take the place of statistics?

What is true of Austria-Hungary is equally true of Russia. A part of her territory has gone to Poland. Poland did not exist as a government in 1910. It now comprises a large population—approximately 30,000,000. Some of her citizens were in 1910 Russian subjects, some were Austrian, and others German. Who is to ascertain the basis on which the admission of those of present Polish nationality is to be computed? To what extent is the quota of Russia, Austria and Germany to be reduced? What are the data from which the quota of Poland is to be determined? There is nothing in our census returns that would throw any light upon the subject.

Again returning to Austria-Hungary, Hungary is now an independent republic entirely separated from the former state. How is the percentage attributable to Austria-Hungary under the census of 1910 to be allocated?

It will be answered that the Act provides, by subdivision (c) of Section 2, that the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Commerce, and the Secretary of Labor, jointly, shall as soon as feasible after enactment prepare a statement showing the number of persons of the various nationalities resident in the United States as determined by the United States Census of 1910, which statement shall be the population basis for the purposes of the Act. In case of changes in political boundaries in foreign countries occurring subsequent to 1910 and resulting (1) in the creation of new countries, the governments of which are recognized by the United States, or (2) in the transfer of territory from one country to another, such transfer being recognized by the United States, such officials jointly shall estimate the number of persons resident in the United States in 1910 who were born within the area included in such new countries or in such territory so transferred and revise the population basis as to each country involved in such change of political boundary. But where can one find the data controlling the statement thus to be prepared? It certainly is not intended to take a census of the foreign-born residing in the United States in 1910 for the purpose of determining from which of the new countries or from which of the transferred territories they came to the United States. Without such a census there would be no proper basis upon which an accurate, or even an approximate, calculation could be based.

So far as the Jews are concerned, they would be in even a worse plight than any other class of immigrants. They are not regarded as a nationality in the bill. They constitute a religious body, just as Protestants and Catholics. They live in all of the newly-created states. But it would be absolutely impossible to determine to what extent those of foreign birth and who are of their faith who resided in the United States in 1910 came from these several states. During the past forty years the principal Jewish migration to this country came from the various parts of Austria-Hungary, including Bohemia, Hungary, and Galicia; from Roumania, including not only Old Roumania, but also Bessarabia and Transylvania; from Russia, including Poland, Lithuania, Latvia and the Ukraine. It would be impossible, therefore, to determine to what extent, if any, the Jews would be admitted into this country.

That would necessarily mean that those who have suffered more from the war than any other people in Eastern Europe will be apt to find the doors of opportunity closed upon them should they seek to migrate to the United States. And yet those of their faith who were here in 1910 are to be classed among our most industrious, enterprising, thrifty, and useful citizens, men and women who have been self-supporting, whose children fought the battles of the Republic, and who have taken an active part in the educational, professional and industrial life of America.

4) The injustice of this measure is further demonstrated by the fact that it makes no allowance for returning immigrants.

According to the estimates of the Congressional committees, if every country that has been classified were to send its full quota of three per cent to the United States the total number admitted annually would be 355,461. During the past twenty years the number of returning immigrants have amounted annually to approximately the same number. It is well known that a very large percentage of Italians and Austrians has returned annually to the lands from which they originated. If it is, therefore, intended to permit our foreign-born population to be increased to the extent of three per centum of the number of foreign-born persons resident in the United States as determined by the Census of 1910, why should not the Act have given credit for returning immigrants?

5) The bill is further discriminatory because it excepts from its operation aliens who have resided continuously for at least one year immediately preceding the time of their admission to the United States in the Dominion of Canada, Newfoundland, the Republic of Cuba, the Republic of Mexico, the countries of Central or South America, or adjacent islands.

Does not that mean that certain interests in those states that border on Mexico or that are located in the vicinity of Cuba, or along our northern and eastern boundaries, are to have the benefit of the immigration of a certain class, whilst those whose industries depend on European labor are to be deprived of such advantage? Cuba would, of course, supply cigar-makers to shops at Key West and other parts of Florida. Mexico would, of course, provide agricultural laborers for Texas and adjoining states. The Dominion of Canada would, of course, supply laborers to the farmers and to the lumbermen of the Northwest. Although the operation of the literacy test would have excluded a large percentage of Mexicans who were needed upon the farms of Texas, New Mexico,and Arizona, by an Executive edict the statute has from time to time been suspended to enable those who needed Mexican labor to have the benefit of it. Since when have Mexicans become more desirable than Italians and Poles?

Are our immigration laws to become the subject of favoritism? One would suppose from the text of this bill that such is the intention. If it is, then the bill is abhorrent to one's sense of right and justice—it becomes sectional, and not national, in its scope. This feature merely emphasizes that departure from genuine Americanism, evident from the beginning to the end of this piece of legislation.

6) The bill, as it passed the House, exempted from its limitation aliens residing in the United States who returned from a temporary visit abroad. That has been eliminated from the measure as it finally passed the Congress.

The aliens thus making visits abroad are such as may have left the country temporarily for business or family reasons; certainly for legitimate purposes, because their return is contemplated. Yet, although residents of the United States, they are nevertheless to be counted in making up the three per cent limit, thus excluding men and women who otherwise would have had an opportunity to make their homes here and to become useful members of the commonwealth.

7) The House provision permitting the re-admission to the United States of aliens who have been conscripted or who have volunteered for service with the military forces of the United States or cobelligerent forces, covered by the joint resolution of October 19, 1918, is likewise eliminated.

As a result of this interpretation men who went abroad under the flag of the Republic as volunteers or as conscripts, men who may be to-day members of our army of occupation, or who may have been detained in Europe by illness or other good causes, are to be subject to the percentage restriction. This is a most extraordinary exhibition of ingratitude and of indifference to the men who went forth at the behest of our country,even though they were not bound to do so and had the right to stand upon their statutory exemption. A man of this class might not be permitted to return with his mother or his sister, because he would have to be counted within the permissible percentage and thus if admitted might stand in the way of the admission of his nearest of kin.

8) Section 5 contains the astonishing provision that for the period between the date when the Act is to take effect and June 30, 1921, "the remaining period of the current fiscal year," the number of aliens of any nationality who may be admitted shall be limited in proportion to the number admissible during the fiscal year 1922.

This means that, although immigrants may be en route at the time when this bill goes into effect, if the number of immigrants admissible during the fiscal year 1920–1921 shall have already been reached, those unfortunates may be halted, in mid-ocean, as it were, and be prevented from entering the United States. This is practically retroactive legislation. Although it constitutes a complete reversal of existing law without giving adequate notice, by its operation thousands of human beings would be condemned to despair.

9) This legislation will tend to prevent the reuniting of families separated in consequence of the war.

To a considerable extent the immigrants during 1920 from Eastern Europe were the wives, children, brothers and sisters and parents of immigrants who had come to this country prior to the war for the purpose of becoming citizens here and, as soon as they were able to do so, of bringing to this country the members of their families whom they had left behind. The war made it impossible to carry out this purpose because of lack of transportation and of interference with communication. As soon as it became possible, however, to find these families, who in many instances had been driven from their homes, efforts were made to carry out the original design of those who had migrated to this country and gained an economic foothold here. This legislation will tend to interfere with this laudable purpose. While it is true that a proviso in the Act declares that, in its enforcement, preference shall be given so far as possible to the wives and minor children of aliens who are now in the United States and have applied for citizenship, nevertheless if, before these wives and minor children should arrive here, the quota for those of their nationality has been reached, they will be turned back and will be subjected to further agony and privation.

During the debate in the House on May 13, 1921, it was conceded that even the children of an American citizen who were abroad would be counted in order to ascertain whether or not a particular nationality has reached or exceeded its quota. One can scarcely believe that ideas so divergent from the humanitarianism constituting a part of our national character shall be permitted to obtain a foothold here.

10) This measure has been hastily drafted, without sufficient study of conditions, and without providing machinery adequate to put it into just working order.

There is no occasion for such haste, because it is now conceded that no emergency exists calling for precipitate action.

11) Finally, the underlying theory of this legislation is opposed to the historic policy of our country.

In the past we have welcomed the immigrant. We have made it possible to enlist him in the development of our resources and in the creation of our great industries, in the construction of our railroads and of our vast public works; to bring into our citizenship men and women of admirable qualities, who have known how to live and to die for the country of their adoption. This measure casts an undeserved slur upon our foreign-born citizens. It tells them that they are men and women of inferior race, that they are not assimilable, that they are undesirable, that even though they are citizens and have performed the duties of citizenship they are not wanted. This is an unfortunate manifestation of a spirit of arrogance and of racial prejudice that bodes ill for the future if it is to be at all encouraged. It tends to destroy that feeling of brotherhood and of equality which in the past constituted so valuable a force in the creation of unity and harmony of which America has hitherto been the embodiment.

Accompanying this memorandum is a copy of the hearing before the House Committee on Immigration and Naturalization held on April 22, 1920. On pages 4 to 65 my views on this subject are stated in detail.

Mr. President, those whom I represent most solemnly appeal to you to withhold your approval from this iniquitous measure.

Respectfully submitted,
LOUIS MARSHALL.

THE PRESIDENT,
THE WHITE HOUSE,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

In the course of the passage of the Johnson-Dillingham Bill through Congress, an episode occurred which appeared to warrant prompt action by this Committee. At the request of the Hon. Albert Johnson, Chairman of the Committee on Immigration of the House of Representatives, there was prepared by the Director of the Consular Service of the Department of State, what purported to be paraphrases of statements in regard to intending immigrants, sent to the State Department by representatives of the United States abroad. This memorandum was sent to Chairman Johnson on April 16, 1921, with a letter of transmittal signed by the Secretary of State, and was given to the press. Through some error, the Associated Press sent out an abstract of the statement ascribing the opinions contained in it to the Secretary of State, who was quoted as saying, in substance, that our restrictions on immigration should be so rigid that it would be impossible for Armenians, Jews, Persians, and Russians to enter the United States. The misunderstanding was soon cleared up by the Secretary of State, who disclaimed any responsibility for the opinions expressed in the document. Subsequently the Secretary's attention was called by your President, in great detail, to the many misstatements, exaggerations, and grave inaccuracies contained in the document, and the position was taken that the consular officers who rendered the reports which were paraphrased had exceeded their jurisdiction in giving expression to the personal views or opinions derived from prejudiced sources therein contained, their authority being limited to a mere statement of authenticated facts without comment or recommendation. There is every reason to believe that there will be no repetition of this offensive practice.

Office of Jewish War Records

During the past year the work which had been conducted by the Office of Jewish War Records of the Committee since 1917 was brought to an end, and the office was discontinued on the 31st of July last.

This action was taken by the Committee after consultation with the Jewish Welfare Board which had provided most of the funds. In the opinion of a well-known statistician whose advice was asked, further investigation along the lines hitherto followed would not bring results commensurate with the financial outlay involved in the maintenance of the office and in the work of securing the information. This statistician made the suggestion that the records which had been already filed should, if possible, be compared with the records of the War Department, with a view to supplementing the information which had been collected. It was found, however, upon investigation, that access to the files of the War Department could not be granted because the office of the Adjutant-General is now congested with a large staff of clerks and because if permission were granted to one organization to search the files, similar permission could not be withheld from other organizations. It was found also that even the government records are decidedly incomplete, and that definitive and authentic lists of those who served in the World War will not be available for many years.

Your Committee is unanimous in the belief that a most creditable piece of work has been done by the Office of Jewish War Records under the faithful and competent direction of Mr. Julian Leavitt, and that he has discharged his responsibility conscientiously and with great ability. We wish to place on record the Committee's appreciation of his devotion to the task with which he was charged and for the efficiency with which he has conducted his office.

Arrangements have been made to have the records stored in such a manner that they will be easily accessible whenever it will be found useful to consult them or whenever it will be possible to revise and perfect them on the basis of official documents. Your Committee has directed Mr. Leavitt to prepare a complete report on the basis of the mass of information which he has succeeded in collecting. It is expected that this report will be ready in the near future.

The American Jewish Year Book

Volume 23 of the American Jewish Year Book for the year 5682 was prepared, as was the case with previous issues, since 1909, in the office of the Committee under the direction of the Assistant Secretary. The leading article in the present volume is a biographical sketch of the late Jacob H. Schiff, written by Doctor Cyrus Adler. Your Committee has arranged for the reprinting of this article in book-form, because it feels that Mr. Schiff's splendid services to the Committee make it fitting that his memory should be thus honored. The Year Book also contains an article on the late Israel Friedlaender, who was a member of this Committee, and on Professor Abram S. Isaacs, who also passed away during 5681. Doctor Charles S. Bernheimer has contributed an article on Jewish Americanization Agencies in which he gives a survey of those institutions which the Jews of the United States have established for the purpose of helping their immigrant co-religionists to adapt themselves to conditions here, to imbibe American ideals, and to make their own contribution to those ideals. The account presented shows that the resources created for this purpose are numerous and varied, and are intelligently and efficiently administered.

As usual, the Year Book contains useful calendars, directories and lists and the Fourteenth Annual Report of the American Jewish Committee.

ORGANIZATION MATTERS

1. Meetings

Your Executive Committee has held meetings on the following dates: December 12, 1920, and January 9, February 13, March 13, April 17, May 8, October 9, and November 12, 1921.

2. Deaths

Two members of the General Committee died during the past year: Mr. J. Walter Freiberg of Cincinnati, and Mr. I. D. Straus of Ligonier, Indiana. Your Executive Committee has adopted the following resolutions:

The Executive Committee has learned with sorrow of the death of J. Walter Freiberg, who had been an active and loyal member of the Committee, since its inception. He was always quick to answer calls made upon him for assistance and as the president of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations he was ever ready to secure the cooperation of that body in any cause upon which this Committee entered. In his death this organization has lost a sincere friend and a valuable co-worker, and the Jewish community an energetic and unselfish leader.

The Executive Committee of the American Jewish Committee is grieved to learn of the death of Mr. I. D. Straus of Ligonier, Indiana, recently elected a member of the General Committee, and extends to the members of his family its sincere sympathy in their bereavement.

3. Membership

Your Committee begs leave to report that the following gentlemen, who were elected to membership at your last annual meeting, have agreed to serve:

District II.	Levi Rothenberg, Meridian, Miss.
District VII.	Julius Rosenwald, Chicago, Ill.
District VIII.	Samuel E. Rauh, Indianapolis, Ind.; Louis Horkheimer, Wheeling, W. Va.
District IX.	B. L. Levinthal and M. Rosenbaum, Philadelphia, Pa.
District X.	Fulton Brylawski, Washington, D. C.; Jacob H. Hollander and Siegmund B. Sonneborn, Baltimore, Md.
District XI.	Isidore Wise, Hartford, Conn.
District XIII.	Simon Fleischmann, Buffalo, N. Y.
At Large.	Herman Bernstein, Nathan Bijur, Abel Davis, Samuel Dorf, Charles Eisenman, Abram I. Elkus, S. Marcus Fechheimer, Lee K. Frankel, Herbert Friedenwald, Louis E. Kirstein, Max J. Kohler, Albert D. Lasker, Irving Lehman, Jacob M. Loeb, Henry Sachs, Horace Stern, Oscar S. Straus, and Lewis Strauss, Jr.

Your Executive Committee has elected the following gentlemen to fill vacancies in the Committee:

District XIV. M. M. Adler, Newark, N. J.; Isaac Alpern, Perth Amboy, N. J.; William Newcorn, Plainfield, N. J.; David Holzner, Trenton, N. J.

The Independent Order of Free Sons of Israel appointed its Grand Master, Mr. Solon J. Liebeskind, as a delegate to the Committee.

The terms of the following members expire this year:

District I. Lionel Weil, Goldsboro, N. C.
District III. Isaac H. Kempner, Galveston, Texas.
District IV. Aaron Waldheim, St. Louis, Mo.
District V. Max C. Sloss, San Francisco, Cal.
District VI. David A. Brown, Detroit, Mich.; Meyer S. May, Grand Rapids, Mich.
District VII. W. B. Woolner, Peoria, Ill.
District VIII. Isaac D. Straus, Ligonier, Ind. (deceased); J. Walter Freiberg, Cincinnati, Ohio (deceased).
District X. Julius Levy, Baltimore, Md.
District XI. Charles H. Shapiro, Bridgeport, Conn.; Isaac M. Ullman, New Haven, Conn.; Jacob Asher, Worcester, Mass.; David A. Lourie, Boston, Mass.
District XIII. Louis J. Kopald, Buffalo, N. Y.; Benjamin M. Marcus, Olean, N. Y.
District XIV. Joseph B. Perskie, Atlantic City, N. J.; Alexander Kaufman, Elizabeth, N. J.; Isador Sobel, Erie, Pa.

Successors are also to be chosen at this meeting to the following members of the Executive Committee, whose terms expire on January 1, 1922:

Cyrus Adler, Abram I. Elkus, Albert D. Lasker, and A. Leo Weil.

Your Committee recommends the election of the following to membership at large:

Herman Bernstein, New York; Nathan Bijur, New York; Abel Davis, Chicago; Samuel Dorf, New York; Charles Eisenman, Cleveland; Abram I. Elkus, New York; S. Marcus Fechheimer, Cincinnati; Lee K. Frankel, New York; Herbert Friedenwald, Washington, D. C.; Louis E. Kirstein, Boston; Max J. Kohler, New York; Jules E. Mastbaum, Philadelphia; Albert D. You will recall that, in its report to you at your Fourteenth Annual Meeting, the Executive Committee made the following statement:

"Your Executive Committee has reached the conclusion that the present methods of electing members to the General Committee are no longer suited to our type of organization. It believes that in view of the fact that the Committee now has a considerable body of contributors, whose numbers are steadily increasing, these persons with the representatives of national organizations actually form the constituency of the organization and should have a voice in selecting members to the General Committee, whenever vacancies occur or terms expire. It is suggested that your committee be empowered to amend the By-Laws with a view to bringing about this change."

In accordance with this resolution your Committee respectfully submits the following amendments for approval, copies of which have been mailed to the membership thirty days prior to this meeting, in accordance with the rules of the Committe.* It will be noted that provision has been made for enlarging the Executive Committee.

4. Finances

During the past fiscal year the Committee received contributions amounting to $30,189.25, as compared with $21,040.40, received during the year 1920. This increase is due to an attempt to secure new contributors to our funds, as a result of which $9,981.00 were collected from 406 persons who had not heretofore extended any financial support to us. A statement of receipts from the various Districts as compared with last year follows:

District	Contributions Received for Fiscal Year Ended Oct. 31, 1920	Contributions Received for Current Fiscal Year Ended Oct. 31, 1921
I	$315.00	$339.50
II	463.00	199.00
III	521.00	397.50
IV	436.00	432.50

VIII	940.00	1,758.00
IX	1,385.50	2,422.00
X	670.00	957.00
XI	582.00	1,480.00
XII	10,168.00	12,291.25

*To save space, these Amendments are omitted here. The revised By-Laws are given at the conclusion of this Report.

	Contribntions Received for Fiscal Year Ended Oct. 31, 1920	Contributfons Received for Current Fiscal Year Ended Oct. 31, 1921

New York, November 7, 1921.

The American Jewish Committee,
171 Madison Avenue,
New York City.

Gentlemen:

We have examined the accounts of the American Jewish Committee for the fiscal year November 1, 1920, to October 31, 1921, and present herewith the results of our findings in the form of the following statements:

Exhibit "A"—Balance Sheet—October 31, 1921.

Exhibit "B"—Statement of Income and Expense for the fiscal year ended October 31, 1921.

Exhibit "C"—Accounting for Special Publication Fund.

We verified the cash on hand by actual count, the cash on deposit with the Fifth National Bank by direct correspondence, cash on deposit with the Union Exchange National Bank by reconcilement with their statements; verified the contributions received from various districts, list of which was prepared by your Assistant Secretary also verified the expense items by independent vouchers.

We hereby Certify that the balance sheet and accompanying statements of income and expenses are in agreement with the books and in our opinion reflect the true financial condition of your Committee at October 31, 1921, and its activities for the fiscal year then ended.

Respectfully submitted,
ZABELLE & GOLINKO.

5. BUREAU OF JEWISH SOCIAL RESEARCH

The preparation of the material for the American Jewish Year Book has now been transferred to the Bureau of Jewish Social Research, under the directorship of Doctor H. S. Linfield, and is again to be edited by the Assistant Secretary of the Committee. The Committee has also increased its 1921 appropriation to the Bureau from $2,500 to $5,000.

Respectfully submitted,

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

ACT OF INCORPORATION

Laws of New York of 1911—Chapter 16

An Act to incorporate the American Jewish Committee. Became a law March 16, 1911, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Mayer Sulzberger, Julian W. Mack, Jacob H. Hollander, Julius Rosenwald, Cyrus Adler, Harry Cutler, Samuel Dorf, Judah L. Magnes, Jacob H. Schiff, Isador Sobel, Cyrus L. Sulzberger, A. Leo Weil, and Louis Marshall, and their associates and successors, are hereby constituted a body corporate, in perpetuity, under the name of the American Jewish Committee; and by that name shall possess all of the powers which by the general corporation law are conferred upon corporations, and shall be capable of taking, holding and acquiring, by deed, gift, purchase, bequest, devise, or by judicial order or decree, any estate, real or personal, in trust or otherwise, which shall be necessary or useful for the uses and purposes of the corporation, to the amount of three millions of dollars.

Sec. 2. The objects of this corporation shall be, to prevent the infraction of the civil and religious rights of Jews, in any part of the world; to render all lawful assistance and to take appropriate remedial action in the event of threatened or actual invasion or restriction of such rights, or of unfavorable discrimination with respect thereto; to secure for Jews equality of economic, social and educational opportunity; to alleviate the consequences of persecution and to afford relief from calamities affecting Jews, wherever they may occur; and to compass these ends to administer any relief fund which shall come into its possession or which may be received by it, in trust or otherwise, for any of the aforesaid objects or for purposes comprehended therein.

Sec. 3. The business and affairs of said corporation shall be conducted by a board of not less than thirteen or more than twenty-one, to be known as the Executive Committee, and the persons named in the first section of this act as incorporators, shall constitute the first Executive Committee of said corporation. At the first meeting of said Executive Committee held after the passage of this act, the members thereof shall be divided into three classes, the first of which shall hold office until January first, nineteen hundred and twelve, the second for one year thereafter, and the third for two years thereafter, and such members of said Executive Committee as may be thereafter added to said Committee shall in like manner be apportioned to said three classes. At the expiration of the term of any member of the Executive Committee his successor shall be elected for the term of three years. All vacancies which may occur in said Committee shall be filled until the ensuing election by said Committee. An annual election for the members of said Executive Committee shall be held at such time and in such manner as shall be fixed by the By-Laws to be adopted by said Executive Committee. At all meetings of the Executive Committee one-third of said Committee shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, but no By-Laws shall be adopted, amended or repealed without the presence of a majority of the members of said Committee for the time being; provided, however, that the By-Laws with respect to membership in the corporation shall not be altered, revised or amended except as provided in Section 4 of this act.

Sec. 4. The members of said corporation shall consist of the persons who shall be designated and chosen for membership by such method or methods and by such organizations, societies and nominating bodies as shall be provided in By-Laws to be adopted for that purpose by the Executive Committee, such By-Laws being however, subject to alteration, revision or amendment at any regular meeting of the members of the corporation or at a meeting called for such purpose; provided that thirty days' notice be given of the proposed change and that such alteration, revision or amendment shall be carried by a majority of at least twenty votes; and not otherwise.

Sec. 5. This act shall take effect immediately.

BY–LAWS

I. Members of the General Committee

The Corporate members of the Committee, Who for purposes of convenience shall be known as the General Committee, shall be of three classes:

Class A. District Members.

Class B. Delegates from National Jewish organizations.

Class C. Members-at-large.

II. Sustaining Members

All persons who make an annual contribution for the support of the Committee amounting to five dollars or over shall be designated as Sustaining Members, and shall, as long as they are in good standing, be entitled to receive regular reports of the activities of the Committee, and to nominate and vote for District Members as provided in Article III, Section 3.

III. Members of Class A

1. District Members shall be chosen from the several Districts hereinafter enumerated and described as follows:

District	I.	North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia. Florida.
District	II.	Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi.
District	III.	Louisiana, Texas, Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma.
District	IV.	Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado.
District	V.	California, Washington, Oregon, Utah, Idaho, Nevada.
District	VI.	Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Montana, Wyoming, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Michigan.
District	VII.	Illinois.
District	VIII.	Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, West Virginia,
District	IX.	City of Philadelphia.
District	X.	Maryland, Virginia, Delaware, District of Columbia.
District	XI.	Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island.
District	XII.	New York City.

District XIII. New York, exclusive of the city.
District XIV. Pennsylvania, exclusive of Philadelphia, New Jersey.

2. District Members shall be apportioned in accordance with the Jewish population of the various cities and states of the country as estimated from time to time by the Bureau of Jewish Social Research and shall be elected by the Sustaining Members residing in the respective Districts, in the manner described in Section 3 of this Article, provided, however, that the existing membership of the Committee be not affected until the terms for which they have been elected shall have expired.

3. District Members to fill vacancies or to succeed Members whose terms expire upon the date of the ensuing Annual Meeting shall be elected in the following manner: The Executive Committee shall appoint a Nominating Committee of fourteen corporate members, one from each District. Not later than the first of May of each year, the Nominating Committee shall, by mail, notify Sustaining Members that nominations are in order, submitting lists of the existing or prospective vacancies, together with a list of persons whom it nominates to fill such vacancies. The Sustaining Members shall be invited to make nominations in their respective districts, other than those proposed by the Nominating Committee, each nominee to be seconded by at least two members resident in the District. After the willingness of the nominees to serve has been ascertained, a ballot for each District, bearing the names of all nominees who have accepted the nomination, shall be sent by mail not later than October 1, to each Sustaining Member, who shall be invited to indicate his preference and to return the ballot to the office of the Committee. The ballot shall indicate which nominees have been selected by the Nominating Committee and which by independent nomination and shall be returned by the voter in a sealed envelope marked "BALLOT cast by from District No....." The polls shall be closed at 10 A.M. on the day of the Annual Meeting, when the envelopes shall be opened and the ballots canvassed publicly by tellers appointed by the presiding officer. The person receiving a plurality of the votes cast for a District Membership shall be declared elected. In case of a tie between two or more candidates, the annual meeting shall elect one from among the persons so tied.

IV. Members of Class B.

Members of Class B shall be chosen by the National Jewish organizations for one year or until their successors are chosen in such manner as the organizations shall determine and to such number as is set forth in detail in the report adopted on November 12, 1916, it being recommended that all selections for membership in the American Jewish Committee made by the national organizations be ratified at the next following general meeting of such organizations.

V. Members of Class C.

Members of Class C shall be elected for one year at the annual meeting of the American Jewish Committee upon nomination of the Executive Committee thereof. This Class shall at no time exceed twenty in number.

VI. Officers.

The Officers of the General Committee shall be a President, two Vice-Presidents and a Treasurer, elected from among and by the Corporate members, and a Secretary who need not be a member of the General Committee, and who shall be elected by the Executive Committee, unless otherwise ordered. The officers shall serve for one year or until their successors are elected.

VII. Executive Committee.

1. The General Committee shall elect not more than twenty-one members, who together with the four officers, to wit, the President, Vice-President and Treasurer, shall constitute the Executive Committee, one-third of the membership of which shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

2. The Executive Committee shall, whenever it shall deem it advisable, report its proceedings or such part thereof as it shall determine to the members of the General Committee by mail, and shall render a complete report of all matters considered and acted upon, at the annual meeting of the Committee. Special committees may be designated by the Executive Committee from the body of the General Committee, which special committees shall report to the Executive Committee from time to time.

VIII. Meetings.

1. A stated meeting of the General Committee shall be held annually on the second Sunday in November at the City of New York, unless the Executive Committee in their discretion determine otherwise. Special meetings shall be called upon the written request of twenty-five members of the General Committee or may be called by the Executive Committee of its own motion. Twenty-one members shall constitute a quorum of the General Committee.

2. Regular meetings of the Executive Committee shall be held at least once every month, except during the months of June, July, August, and September. Special meetings of the Executive Committee may be held at the instance of the chairman or at the request of three members of that committee.

3. Notice of special meetings of the General Committee or of the Executive Committee shall be given by mail or telegraph to the members, stating as nearly as possible, within the discretion of the Executive Committee, the purpose for which the meeting is called.

IX. Offices.

The principal office of the General Committee shall be established in the City of New York, and other offices and agencies may be established outside of New York as the General Committee or the Executive Committee may from time to time deem necessary.

X. Amendments.

These By-Laws, except as limited by the Charter, shall be subject to alteration, revision or amendment at any regular meeting of the General Committee or at a meeting thereof called for such purpose, provided that thirty days' notice be given of the proposed change, and that the motion for amendment be carried by a majority of at least twenty votes.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE JEWISH PUBLICATION SOCIETY OF AMERICA

The Annual Meeting of the Jewish Publication Society of America was held on Sunday evening, March 26, 1922, at the Dropsie College for Hebrew and Cognate Learning, Philadelphia, Pa. The President of the Society, Mr. Simon Miller, acted as Chairman, and Mr. I. George Dobsevage, of Philadelphia, as Secretary.

The President read the following report of the Society's activities:

The President's Address

A generation ago the Jewish population of America numbered about 300,000. It had its fair proportion of Jewish institutions of worship, of learning, and of social service, also a reasonable number of students, scholars, and authors. When these scholars and writers wished to publish their literary output, they either paid for it themselves or occasionally secured a publisher for a small edition. It was left to that enthusiastic group of sturdy Jews who gathered in this city in 1888 to create an organization for "the publication and dissemination of literary, scientific, and religious works, giving instruction in the principles of the Jewish religion and in Jewish history and literature." Before the Society's existence there had been a number of learned works issued by such scholars as Leeser, Kohut, Jastrow, Szold, Samuel Hirsch, and Wise, while a small number of pseudo-scholars and writers of Jewish miscellanies flourished without great injury to Jewish literature, for their books found a very small market. These individual efforts, even of the worthy kind, lacked in definiteness of purpose as well as in the scope of the appeal to the general public. With the establishment of the Jewish Publication Society, there arose in America not only a publisher of books of merit but a great distributing agency as well. It is hard to estimate what the progress of Jewish literature in America might have been had the society not been established. Certain it is that some of the writings of Graetz, Dubnow, Karpeles, Abrahams, Radin, Philipson, Greenstone, Jacobs, Bentwich, Malter, Margolis, Halper, Lazarus, Schechter, Wolfenstein, Isaacs, Perez, and Zangwill, would either not have appeared at all or would never have reached so many thousands of readers.

The Society has issued more than 120 books, and has distributed more than a million and three-quarters copies of these publications. These figures by no means represent the numbers who have read our books, nor the influence they have had in educating the Jew to know himself or in creating an intelligent public opinion. Authoritative books on Jewish history, Jewish religion, Jewish literature, and Jewish thought were needed, not only for self-instruction but to present to the world the facts of Jewish history, religion, literature, and thought. With due modesty, we may proclaim that no educational society in the world, certainly no Jewish society, has accomplished so much. We have done this work without having been adequately supported by our community.

For thirty years the Society tried to supply three or four books a year to its members on an income from membership dues barely sufficient to pay the cost of revising manuscripts, editing them, seeing them through the press, and paying for their production and distribution. Owing to the financial crisis brought about by the war and the consequent readjustment, even a five-dollar membership is not enough to meet the expenses. For a long time we have been running short in our finances, but particularly so since the war. Last year we appealed to the American Jews to help us raise a Sustaining Fund of $200,000, which would not only pay our debts but place the Society in a position where it could with the necessary capital carry on more than a hand-to-mouth existence. This fund is essential, not only to meet the heavy indebtedness but to bring to fruition the large projects which are necessitated by the increasing demands of a population that has risen from three hundred thousand of a generation ago to over three millions. Moreover, a group that numbers three millions certainly requires a greater literary output than has been rendered thus far, and its budget must include not only money for the relief of sufferers abroad and the amelioration of physical discomfort at home, but must also supply the spiritual food, without which the body cannot thrive and the soul cannot function.

Shall we cease spreading Jewish knowledge? Shall our boys and girls have no Jewish Bibles, no Jewish histories, and no Jewish literature to inspire them to be better Jews? Had not these questions been answered affirmatively, the New Translation of the Bible—a version by Jews for Jews—Graetz's "History of the Jews," Dubnow's "History of the Jews in Russia and Poland," Lazarus' "Ethics," and the essays by Schechter and Ahad Ha-'am, and the list of worthy books by worthy authors too long to be mentioned, would not have seen the light of day. If we are to cease spreading Jewish knowledge, we must cease at once the work on the Jewish Classics; stop the progress of the Jewish Commentaries on the Bible; cancel our arrangements for the preparation of biographies of celebrities; discontinue the books dealing with the movements in Judaism and the many manuals on the Bible. If we are to cease spreading Jewish knowledge, we ought to scrap the New Hebrew Press, which promises to make America the centre for the finest Hebrew printing of our sacred literature.

Shall we stop combating prejudice? Racial and religious prejudice must not be allowed to take root in the free soil of America. If we are to impress our neighbors favorably, they must learn that we are the bearers of something worth preserving. To gain the respect of our neighbors we must learn to respect ourselves as Jews, and this can only come through a knowledge of Jewish history, religion, and literature. Through its books the Society has helped to produce a cultured Jewry and sympathetic public. Jewish literature not only reveals the Jew to the Jew, but the Jew to the Gentile. Jewish books should be in the hands of American statesmen, legislators, editors, teachers, clergymen, and leaders of business and public opinion. Shall we discontinue our contributions to Americanism and Jewish ideals? Shall thirty-four years of sacred service be ended now for lack of funds? Among all denominations, shall the Jews be the only people whose literature is inaccessible to themselves? Shall the Jewish Publication Society of America, with its great record of service, live or die?

We require the $200,000 to help distribute the Bible; disseminate information about Jews and Judaism; encourage Jewish writers to write on Jewish subjects; place Jewish literature in Jewish homes and public institutions; perpetuate our sacred literature in Hebrew and English translation, and further the cause of Jewish education generally. The practical answer to the questions raised here can only come in the form of substantial contributions from Jews throughout the land. The recent success of the fourteen million dollars relief drive, which promises to become seventeen million dollars, encourages us in the hope that the small sum of $200,000 we seek from three million Jews will be forthcoming this year without fail. Our Sustaining Fund drive resulted in about $25,000 being secured, most of it in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Baltimore, and Washington—a small sum indeed, but we hope it is an earnest of what is to follow. A new form of militant Judaism which one may style "Mobile Judaism" has developed in Mobile, Alabama. With a Jewish population of less than nine hundred, the community responded with $1000, which represents more than one dollar for each Jewish soul. Will the rest of the communities respond in a similar spirit? This would place Jewish literature and institutions like ours on the highest possible level, and affect the spiritual life of our people in an unprecedented manner. No people can be great without possessing a great literature, and it is our aim to be a great people.

Owing to the financial condition just dwelt upon, the output of the Society was of necessity curtailed, not only in the manufacture of new books but in the reprinting and reproduction of older publications. This we hope will be remedied, for we have on hand quite a few manuscripts of great merit which should be published at once.

Since we last met we sent to our members the English volume of "Post-Biblical Hebrew Literature" by Dr. B. Halper. This book will serve as an introduction to the Jewish Classics which will appear in due course. Together with its Hebrew volume, it was very enthusiastically received by the public, the press, and scholars throughout the world. Reviews have appeared and are still appearing in many periodicals, Jewish and non-Jewish, and the impression created is that the Society has produced a volume which, as an anthology of Jewish literary treasures, gives a glimpse into the vast storehouse of Hebrew literature from the conclusion of the biblical period down to recent times. The reviewers have emphasized the availability of this book for practical use in colleges, universities, and in school-rooms. It bids fair to become a standard text-book.

The current Year Book has maintained the standard of other issues. The leading article in this volume is a biographical sketch of the late Jacob H. Schiff, from the pen of Dr. Cyrus Adler. Dr. Adler incorporates many interesting details of various phases of Mr. Schiff's career. Dr. Adler was a close friend of Mr. Schiff and his enthusiastic co-worker in many enterprises, especially those dealing with the promotion of Jewish education and learning, and has succeeded in portraying the life and activities of a great man. This article has been reprinted by the American Jewish Committee in attractive form. This sketch is followed by an article dealing with the story of the life and death of Professor Israel Friedlaender; his remarkable activities in all Jewish causes are ably described by his admirer and pupil, Rabbi Jacob Kohn. Mr. Lewis M. Isaacs contributed a biographical sketch of the lamented Professor Abram S. Isaacs, a number of whose books the Society published. Dr. Charles S. Bernheimer, former secretary of the Society, contributed an interesting article on Jewish Americanization agencies.

The society also issued the first book under the terms of the Morris Loeb Foundation, Professor Malter's "Saadia Gaon—His Life and Works," which has been favorably reviewed and due credit given it as a volume of exceptional scholarship. In interpreting for modern times the life and works of the greatest of the Geonim, Professor Malter has brought to his task a love for his subject and a rare familiarity with all the literature on Saadia. Professor Malter has taken into account everything known that bears upon his topic, and he thus has succeeded in drawing not only a vivid picture of the man Saadia—the founder of Jewish science, the revivifier of Jewish faith and learning—but also in depicting the historical background and throwing new light upon an obscure period in Jewish history. While the chief value of the book is to students and teachers, its interest is not confined to these alone. As a contribution to the history of culture it appeals with special force to Jews who wish to become better acquainted with the life and times of the great Gaon.

We are about to send to our members a volume by Professor Max L. Margolis entitled "The Hebrew Scriptures in the Making." It gives a remarkable account of the problems connected with the Bible, traditional and untraditional. Needless to say that this subject treated by such a scholar as Professor Margolis may be regarded as authoritative and accurate. Though small in size, it is full of valuable information and will be welcomed by those who seek reliable information about the Bible. It would make an admirable text-book for Jewish educational institutions.

This book will be followed by a volume by Yehoash, consisting of impressions of Jewish life in Palestine at the beginning of the World War. It is a description of the Holy Land as it appears to an eminent poet and keen observer. The original was published in Yiddish, and the Society thus adds another volume to those we have already issued from the growing literature written by eminent Yiddish authors of to-day. Another Yiddish work which we shall publish in English translation will be Sholom Asch's "Kiddush Ha-Shem." It is a historical novel of great power, and deals with a period of Cossack outrages, not of the twentieth, but of the seventeenth century.

Among the books that are to follow are "Studies in Judaism," Third Series, by Schechter, and Slousch's volume on "Travels in Northern Africa." If our work is not interrupted through lack of funds, we shall issue speedily volumes from the many series that have been projected, some of which are ready or are being completed by the score of Jewish writers at present engaged in this work.

In enumerating the miscellaneous and the varied nature of the books that we issue, it may be well to remark upon the results of a referendum taken by the Society when the membership was asked to indicate whether it wished the Year Book or some other book in its place. Of the 3500 who have replied, 1800 specified that they wished the Year Book, while 1700 thought that they would like to have such books as "The Talmud," "Jewish Contributions to Civilization," and similar substantial publications. This would in a measure indicate that the so-called heavy books are the books a large proportion of our membership wish to read and study. The Trustees and the Publication Committee are considering a plan under which the Society may publish a considerably larger number of books than it does, but issue them in smaller editions, thus affording the members a larger choice from which they may select books that would specially appeal to them. This would, in a measure, do away with the criticism that is occasionally levelled that it is impossible to issue books to satisfy all tastes.

It is a pleasure to announce that the first volume in the Classics Series will in all likelihood appear sometime in the coming year. The book comprises a selection of Ibn Gabirol's poems, the text having been edited and annotated by Professor Israel Davidson and translated into English verse by Mr. Israel Zangwill. This classic volume of the Classics Series may be described as being the finest fruit of the noblest mind of mediæval Jewry rendered into English by the foremost literary figure of modern Jewry.

The New Hebrew Press is an accomplished fact, using machinery and processes which revolutionize the art of Hebrew printing. Originally designed for the printing of the Series of Jewish Classics, it will adequately meet all the needs of American publishers in the matter of Hebrew printing. For the first time in the history of Hebrew printing, vowel-points are set by machine. All conceivable kinds of Hebrew composition, with or without vowel-points, notes, Bible texts with musical accents, may be set by this process. Scientific articles requiring a mixture of English and Hebrew and all sorts of faces and sizes can be set by the New Hebrew Press. The convenience of this can be readily seen when setting up glossaries and dictionaries; that is to say, wherever several languages and variations of style of type are required. The New Hebrew Press combines beauty with clearness. Publishers generally, universities and learned societies in particular, as well as private individuals, may utilize all its advantages. Already a number of books have been set up, some of which will soon appear, and it promises to become a busy press.

The trustees announce again that manuscripts which are to be submitted in competition for a $1000 prize offered under the terms of the "Henry and Diana L. Gitterman Memorial Fund for an original study in the English language dealing with Contributions of Jews to Hygiene" must be in the hands of the Society on or about September 1, 1922. The committee looks forward to the awarding of the prize for a study which will be thorough and popular in presentation.

The coming year is the crucial test whether Jewry is alive or dead to its opportunities and its obligation to perpetuate the ancient faith on American soil. We boast now of our communal work, which is dependent on the free offerings of money and service. But American Jewry must see that this community feeling will become attenuated and unresponsive unless a true Jewish ideal actuates it. In the hostile religious environment this ideal can only be implanted by a knowledge of our literature and history. Unlike the preceding generation, this and succeeding ages must look to the vernacular for information, and unless this is supplied they will lose contact with Judaism and these communal activities of which we boast will lose their constituencies. Let us hope that the "saving remnant" will rise up so that this Society will be able to fulfil its mission. Membership had been stabilized in number by means of paid agents. This proved so expensive that we were forced to abandon the plan. We must rely on the Jewish interest of individuals, many of whom need only to have their attention drawn to the needs of the Society. It is the duty of our rabbis to awaken this interest. No class should be more helpful nor any more eager to prevent the dissolution of this publishing agency than the rabbinate. We believe it is their desire to awaken American Israel to this danger. We feel that with the whole-hearted support of the rabbinate, the laity will assume the responsibility of perpetuating the Society.

Mr. Solomon Stroock's Address

It has been repeatedly charged, and we must admit, with justice, that we Jews have a cosmopolitan habit of mind. Released only a few years ago from the confinement of the ghetto walls, the Jew, like a spring which had been held down and fastened and suddenly let go, sprung with a bound into the intellectual life of those of other faiths and other beliefs. His sense of perspective, so long pent up, broadened rapidly, ever widening like the circles upon a pool of water into which a stone has been cast. But this cosmopolitan habit of mind has strangely enough caused us to grow more and more self-conscious,as distinguished from self-possessed, and we have not concerned ourselves at all with the Socratic doctrine: "Know Thyself." We have been more than anxious to know what our neighbors think of us. It has become to us a matter of little moment what we are, so long as we feel that we are making a favorable impression upon our neighbors. In the diaspora, and especially in this America of ours, our attitude has been almost constantly apologetic. We are eternally afraid that we shall make a faux pas and so betray our lack of so-called "breeding and refinement." This attitude we have carried into effect not merely in our manners, not merely in practising the approved dictates of etiquette, but we show it in our intellectual pursuits and in our contributions to literature, to the arts, and to the sciences. Deep down in our hearts—sometimes suppressed, as our psycho-analyst friends say, but never forgotten—even the most loyal of us feels that as a Jew he is not merely a little lower than the angels, but perceptibly quite a bit lower than his neighbor who is lucky enough to have been born without the characteristic Semitic features or the equally characteristic Semitic arrogance. In an effort to escape from the awful heritage which is ours the surgeon's knife has frequently been employed to alter our all-too-prominent noses, and the law-courts have been overburdened with applications to change our names, the repetition of which sounded dreadful to our sensitive ears, and by changing which we hoped to disguise our identity. Some of us have even bemoaned the fact that we have not been as clay in the hands of the potter as far as our features are concerned, so that they might be more easily moulded out of their Jewish conspicuousness. All of this is in fact the attempt upon our part to indulge in that pastime which might be regarded as humorous if it were not so tragic, and which Mr. Zangwill has so felicitously dubbed "protective mimicry." Protective mimicry is that quality with which Nature has endowed certain birds and animals in permitting them to escape the snare of the fowler or the bullet of the hunter by throwing out a sort of protective coloring which makes them appear as if they were merged in the surrounging landscape. But while Nature has thus been kind to some birds and animals, she has not been equally kind to others. She bestows her bounty where she wills, and woe betide him who seeks to appropriate unto himself a gift intended for others! Witness the ostrich, whose hiding of his head in the sand has served only to make him more conspicuous to the hunter! Yet ostriches have ever hidden their heads in the sand, and I suppose they will continue to do so until they have no more heads to hide. This desire to please our neighbors, and in so doing to hide our Jewishness, has caused us, in our attempt not to be ostentatious, to become more and more ostentatious.

Who, in the late war, proclaimed his patriotism more often and more loudly than the Jew? The story is the same in all countries, in England, in France, in America, and even in Germany. Here in America, our own country, this certainly was the experience of many of us, but the fact remains that while the Jew may have felt consciously what other citizens took as a matter of course, his patriotism might often well be regarded as ultra-patriotism. Lest his Christian neighbor might have doubts as to his loyalty to his country, this same spirit of ostentation, this constant desire to stand "right" with his Christian neighbor, caused him to shout his patriotism from the housetops in season and out of season, and he who was most vociferous was the envy of his less-gifted brother.

The Jew, pillaged and cuffed and kicked from land to land, came to this new land not to change his country as did other immigrants, but he came in search of a country, and when he found that he was permitted to establish himself and to live in peace, his craving for liberty, his tradition of justice made him love this land which to him was the land of opportunity, realizing at last the saying of Proverbs that righteousness exalteth a nation. Such a righteous nation was to him indeed exalted; he loved it, for it he wished to live; to preserve it, he was ready to die. That Jew and his descendants—and thank God, their name is legion—lived among us, and they still live among us. But to how many of us was not this vociferous ultra-patriotism but another form of that "protective mimicry" to which we have just referred?

We pride ourselves upon the inestimable contributions we Jews of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries have made to science, to music, to art, to literature, to philosophy, to commerce, to diplomacy, to law, to industry,and to civilization. We have produced geniuses entirely out of proportion to our numbers. This is no longer a debatable statement, but an accepted postulate. But the men who have made these contributions did so not as Jews, often in spite of the fact that they were Jews, and, almost as often, even they have adopted some sort of "protective mimicry" to hide the unpleasant evidence of their Jewishness. Our men of genius, those who have left footprints on the sands of time, with a few notable exceptions, have not been interpreters of the Jew nor of the Jewish spirit.

I am reminded of a remark made by a Jewess who successfully founded and has built up a flourishing and exceedingly useful institution in one of our larger cities. This institution is called "non-sectarian," which means generally that it is an institution supported by Jews for the benefit of non-Jews—another form of "protective mimicry." This lady was asked if she did not believe that she might, without lessening the importance of her work, introduce something of the Jewish spirit into her institution. She answered that she would give the matter consideration because she had often felt "an ancestral thrill." There is in the work of many of these Jewish geniuses little evidence of even "an ancestral thrill."

What has been the result of our policy of neglecting to learn to know ourselves, and instead of devoting our time and attention and thought in our efforts so to comport ourselves as to win the approval of our Christian neighbors?

Having placed ourselves in the attitude of apologists, our neighbors have been only too willing to accept us at our own valuation, and they have called upon us and are still calling upon us to furnish adequate explanation, and even excuse, for our continued existence. And this is not confined to the rabble, the ignorant, and the depraved among them.

Never in the history of our people has anti-Semitism been more prevalent. Never has it been more virulent and destructive. Not only in the backward countries where superstition and ignorance hold sway, but even in the enlightened countries of Europe and in our America, the Jew as a Jew is more hated and despised than ever before. I have not in mind illiterate fanatics, such as that benighted manufacturer of cheap automobiles, who, having demonstrated that he is a successful mechanic and self-advertiser, is suffering from the megalomaniac delusion that he is a great statesman, an eminent journalist, and in his leisure moments a crusader, divinely appointed to save the world from the menace of the Jew. I am thinking of men who are, in fact, statesmen—men of letters and distinguished scientists into whose veins the virus of anti-Semitism has crept and who adroitly, sometimes consciously, but sometimes unconscious of it themselves, display a malignity toward the Jew as a Jew, which must cause the thinking Jew who loves his people and who is proud of his heritage, to pause and wonder, if not to despair.

Read your magazines, not the yellow sort, but those which are supposed to represent learning and culture and intellectual development and answer if I overstate the case. Read the best sellers among the novels, which are turned out in ever-increasing numbers, and observe if you will how Jews as Jews are discussed with contumely and despite. Examine the history of the so-called Americanization movements. Study the arguments of those who would shut the doors of our country to the persecuted immigrant seeking refuge from death and the despoiler, and again you will find anti-Semitism rampant and triumphant.

America for Americans! What a noble slogan! But behind that slogan, sometimes conceded, sometimes thinly covered over, there is a propaganda which refuses to concede that Jews are or can be regarded as Americans, irrespective of whether they were born in this country or whether they first saw the light in some other land from whose unfriendly shores they fled to seek shelter in this land of freedom.

Another phase of our protective mimicry has led many among us to join these movements and to become among the most vociferous shouters.

If we are to favor any slogan, let it be not "America for Americans," but "America for all Americans;" that is, for all who love America because they love liberty and also "All Americans for America," that is, all who love liberty for America, the land of liberty, the incarnation of freedom and the hope of the world.

You may rightly and justly ask me: What are you going to do about it?

To paint the picture in such drab colors, to indulge in destructive criticism without any constructive suggestion, might well justify your severest condemnation, but before we can construct, we must look fearlessly at the conditions which surround us, and we must equally fearlessly turn the X-ray upon ourselves and search out and bring to life and destroy those influences which have undermined us, not only as Jews, but as citizens of our country. If we do this and frankly and truly admit not only to the world, but to ourselves, that we have sinned, we will have made the first step in the right direction.

I speak to you as one who himself has sinned grievously, and it will do us all good if we can gather together in this assemblage and admit freely, as we do in our synagogues on the Day of Atonement, year in and year out, that we have indeed sinned. But let our profession of sin be with an understanding heart. Let us not mouth the words as we often do in our so-called prayers. Let us truly mean what we say, and, meaning it, understand what we say. Too often we indulge in mere formulae, which by frequent repetition lose their meaning and of which we cease to have understanding. We repeat these formulae like the child who, running home to his father, proclaimed in ecstasy that he knew what the Equator was and then proceeded to state that he had learned in school that it was a menagerie lion running around the centre of the earth and that he had seen its tracks upon a globe at school. But in this admission of our sin, it is not necessary for us to go so far as to hate ourselves, nor to hate one another. We may well take a leaf out of the book of our Christian neighbors, and while learning to hate the sin, learn to love the sinner.

How shall we learn to know ourselves?

How shall we learn to recover our self-respect as Jews and in that way not seek, but merit and earn, the respect of our neighbors?

Some future historian, writing the history of the times in which we live, will probably designate this age as an age of discovery. It is not the age of discovery of new lands or of new peoples, but it is the age of discovery of ourselves. In discovering a thing, we do not find something new—we uncover something which has always existed but which through time and neglect has been covered and hidden.

Men all over the world are to-day, in an effort to get their bearings after the cataclysm resulting from the great war, seeking to discover, if they can, the causes which brought about the great upheaval so as to take measures to render avoidable such a catastrophe in the future.

That is the meaning of the recent conference at Washington for the Limitation of Armament; that is the meaning of the conference which is soon to be held at Genoa, and that was the meaning, in the larger and broader sense, of the attempted establishment of the League of Nations. And just as nations are seeking these discoveries—this uncovering—so men, as individuals, as families, as groups of all sorts, as members of the same faith, are seeking to discover the causes which have brought about their present unhappy conditions, in order that by appropriate measures they may be remedied and cured.

We, as Jews, have often talked a great deal about our ancient lineage and our great traditions, but we have talked about them in the most general way, without seeking to delve too deeply into the history of our past, to discover the traditions of our people and the wisdom of our forefathers. We have been content to regard ourselves as the heirs of this heritage of learning, but we have not sought in our own lives to make use of that heritage. We are like those who inherit a vast and productive estate, containing fields which have produced bountifully, but who neglect to continue to cultivate those fields to which they have fallen heir, with the result that they are no longer productive, but fall into stubble and thistles and thorns. But we are discovering that these fields are fruitful fields; that by cultivating them we can again make them fruitful and productive, and that we can again give to the world in the same measure, as did our forefathers, the fruits of Jewish learning, of Jewish traditions, and of the true Jewish spirit.

In this work the Jewish Publication Society has rendered yeoman service. The edition of the Jewish classics in the vernacular, which will be published and circulated, containing a faithful exposition of Jewish tradition and Jewish spirit, will bring to our people a knowledge of what they really are and what they truly can become.

We are indeed learning to know ourselves.

We are taking from the past the wrappings which have so long covered the wisdom of our sages, and we are bringing to light and to life all that is best in our past.

This Society has among its greatest achievements the proud privilege of having published and circulated works like Graetz's "History of the Jews," and Schechter's "Studies in Judaism," but we have not circulated these books sufficiently. We should place these books in the hands of our children when they are still of tender age. Our children are our gardens, and in this way we may properly cultivate them. We should place these books in the hands of our youth and in the hands of our young men and of our young women, and of our older men and of our older women, too, and impress upon them all that in reading them and in studying them they are being provided not only with a rich source of entertainment, but that we are placing in their hands a torch which they themselves must light and keep burning brightly; to hold on high and illumine the pathway, not only for ourselves, but for those with whom we come in contact. If we do this we shall bring to ourselves a knowledge of ourselves. We shall prove that we are not merely descendants of great ancestors, but that we are worthy of our inheritance; that we have been weighed in the balance and found not wanting.

Jewish art and learning are not dead. We have permitted them to lie dormant.

We shall not attain our purpose, however, merely by studying the history of our past.

It is not only necessary that we take advantage of the epoch-making work of a Schechter, who, by his discoveries in the Genizah, brought to the world and to light an almost inexhaustible store of Jewish learning and poetry, which under the auspices of societies like this is being made available for us all; we must do more. We must cultivate the same fields, endowed and enriched as we are by the possession of our great heritage.

Jewish art did not die with Bezalel.

Jewish architecture did not die with Hiram.

Jewish philosophy did not die with Philo.

Jewish poetry did not die with David.

Jewish wisdom did not die with Ben Sira.

Jewish learning did not struggle on through the ages only to die with the brilliant rabbis and sages of the eighteenth century.

A revival of Jewish art and of Jewish learning is at hand.

It is for us to seek out and find our Jewish poets,now mute and inglorious, but who will yet give to the world another song of Miriam and another Song of Songs.

When we understand ourselves, as we are coming to understand ourselves, we shall rid ourselves for ever of that protective mimicry which has led us so far astray, and has brought to us only sorrow and distress.

Our men of genius will become not merely interpreters of the times in which they live, intermediaries, as it were, among the different peoples with whom they come into contact, but will become, as were our sages of old, interpreters of the Jew, champions of the Jewish spirit. These will be our fruits which we will give to the world. When we come to know ourselves there will be little difficulty in making others come to know us as we are, and not for what we pretend to be.

Publications

The publications issued during 1921-1922 were as follows:

1. Post-Biblical Hebrew Literature. By B. Halper.
2. The American Jewish Year Book 5682.
3. The Hebrew Scriptures in the Making. By Max L. Margolis.
4. Saadia Gaon. By Henry Malter. (Not for distribution among members.)

Elections

The committee on nominations presented the following report:

President (for one year), Simon Miller, of Philadelphia.

First Vice-President (for one year), Abram I. Elkus, of New York.

Second Vice-President (for one year), Horace Stern, of Philadelphia.

Trustees (for three years), Hart Blumenthal, of Philadelphia; Leo M. Brown, of Mobile; Ephraim Lederer, of Philadelphia; Alphonse B. Miller, of Philadelphia; Simon Miller, of Philadelphia; William M. Lewis, of Philadelphia.

Honorary Vice-Presidents (for three years), Max Heller, of New Orleans; Simon W. Rosendale, of Albany; Joseph Stolz, of Chicago; Sigmund B. Sonneborn, of Baltimore; Martin A. Meyer, of San Francisco.

The secretary was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot for the nominees, and the chairman declared them duly elected.

Amendment

The Board of Trustees presented the following amendment to be acted upon at a special meeting.

Amend Article III, Section 1, to read:

"There shall be thirty-six directors to be elected by ballot at the annual meetings, provided that at the meeting of the society at which this section is adopted there shall be elected fifteen members in addition to those then serving, five to serve for one year, five to serve for two years, and five to serve for three years, and at each annual meeting hereafter twelve directors shall be elected."

On motion the meeting adjourned.

I. George Dobsevage,

Secretary.

CHARTER

The terms of the charter are as follows:

The name of the corporation is THE JEWISH PUBLICATION SOCIETY OF AMERICA.

The said Corporation is formed for the support of a benevolent educational undertaking, namely, for the publication and dissemination of literary, scientific, and religious works, giving instruction in the principles of the Jewish religion and in Jewish history and literature.

The business of said corporation is to be transacted in the city and county of Philadelphia.

The corporation is to exist perpetually.

There is no capital stock, and there are no shares of stock.

The corporation is to be managed by a Board of Trustees, consisting of fifteen members, and by the following officers: President, Vice-President, Secretary, and Treasurer, and such other officers as may from time to time be necessary.

ARTICLE I

Membership

SECTION I.—The Society shall be composed of Annual Members, Library Members, Patrons, Friends, Sustaining Members, and Life Members. Any person of the Jewish faith may become a Member by paying annually the sum of five dollars ($5), or a Library Member by the annual payment of ten dollars ($10), or a Patron by the annual payment of twenty dollars ($20), or a Friend by the annual payment of fifty dollars ($50), or a Sustaining Member by the annual payment of one hundred dollars ($100), or a Life Member by one payment of two hundred and fifty dollars ($250).

SEC. II.—Any Jewish Society may become a Member by the annual payment of ten dollars ($10).

SEC. III.—Any person may become a Subscriber by the annual payment of five dollars ($5), which entitles him or her to all the publications of the Society to which members are entitled.

ARTICLE II

Meetings

SECTION I.—The annual meeting of this Society shall be held in the month of March, the day of such meeting to be fixed by the Directors at their meeting in the previous January.

SEC. II.—Special meetings may be held at any time at the call of the President, or by a vote of a majority of the Board of Directors, or at the written request of fifty members of the Society.

ARTICLE III

Officers and Their Duties

SECTION I.—There shall be twenty-one Directors, to be elected by the Society by ballot.

At the annual meeting to be held in May, 1908, there shall be elected eleven directors, seven to serve for one year, two to serve for two years, and two to serve for three years; and at every subsequent annual meeting, seven directors shall be elected for three years.

SEC. II.—Out of the said twenty-one, the Society shall annually elect a President, Vice-President, and Second Vice-President, who shall hold their offices for one year.

SEC. III.—The Society shall also elect fifteen Honorary Vice-Presidents, in the same manner and for the same terms of office as the Directors are chosen.

SEC. IV.—The Board of Directors shall elect a Treasurer, a Secretary, and such other officers as they may from time to time find necessary or expedient for the transaction of the Society's business.

SEC. V.—The Board of Directors shall appoint its own committees, including a Publication Committee, which committee may consist in whole or in part of members of the Board.

The Publication Committee shall serve for one year.

ARTICLE IV

Quorum

SECTION I.—Forty members of the Society shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business

ARTICLE V

Vacancies

SECTION I.—The Board of Directors shall have power to fill all vacancies for unexpired terms.

ARTICLE VI

Benefits

SECTION I.—Every member of the Society shall receive a copy of each of its publications approved by the Board of Directors for distribution among the members.

ARTICLE VII

Free Distribution

SECTION I.—The Board of Directors is authorized to distribute copies of the Society's publications among such institutions as may be deemed proper, and wherever such distribution may be deemed productive of good for the cause of Israel.

ARTICLE VIII

Auxiliaries

SECTION I.—Other associations for a similar object may be made auxiliary to this Society, by such names and in such manner as may be directed by the Board of Directors, and shall have the privilege of representation at meetings. Agencies for the sale and distribution of the Society's publications shall be established by the Board of Directors in different sections of the country. The Society shall have the right to establish branches.

ARTICLE IX

Finances

SECTION I.—Moneys received for life memberships, and donations and bequests for such purpose, together with such other moneys as the Board of Directors may deem proper, shall constitute a permanent fund, but the interest of such fund may be used for the purposes of the Society.

ARTICLE X

Amendments

These By-Laws may be altered or amended by a vote of two-thirds of those entitled to vote at any meeting of the Society; provided that thirty days' notice be given by the Board of Directors, by publication, to the members of the Society.
